WHEN MEDICINE IS NECESSARY
—medicine of an aperient—corrective—digestive and tonic nature—why not take the preparation which has been proved so singularly successful? Almost everybody requires a little medicine of the kind mentioned, at one time or another, and it is very important that the right preparation should be used. Now those who have taken Beecham's Pills strongly recommend them to others—this is a point to bear in mind. Beecham's Pills have increased in popularity year after year, until their name is a household word practically all over the world. This popularity, ever-increasing, is convincing proof that the medicine is really excellent—that it does really perform what is claimed for it. How otherwise can such consistent approval be explained? When medicine is necessary, therefore,

TAKE

Beecham's Pills. This will always be a wise and a safe course. Scientifically prepared from the purest ingredients and being entirely free from anything but what will do good. Beecham's Pills may be taken by young and old. All will derive benefit. Test for yourself the cleansing, digestive, and tonic qualities of

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Sold everywhere in boxes, price 1/1½ (56 pills) and 2/9 (168 pills).

SILENCE & POWER

two of the outstanding features of the MORRIS LIGHT CARS—attributes which you demand in the large Cars, but which you seldom get in the Light Car Class.

In MORRIS CARS the four-cylinder Hotchkiss Engine is as silent and almost as flexible as any six-cylinder, and while its R.A.C. Rating is only 11.9 it develops as much power as many engines of much higher rating. It is super-efficient. The Back Axle is absolutely silent. Transmission noises are entirely absent. Combined with its superb springing, you have what makes it the best of all the Light Cars. Test these statements by a Demonstration run. No importunity to purchase.

PRICES from £465.

ALLEGED THEFT FROM THE G.P.O.

In the Northern Police Court yesterday, A. Wilson, an employe in the General Post Office, was charged with the larceny of a test packet from the G.P.O. containing cigars and cigarettes. Evidence was given that the accused was employed in sorting parcels for despatch to the South of Ireland, and that when arrested the police found in the pocket of his coat a package of cigarettes. When cautioned by the police sergeant accused said he would say nothing. A Post Office official gave evidence that the missing parcel was sorted in the room where the accused was employed.

Mr. E. H. Burne, who appeared for the defence, asked that the defendant, who was sent for trial, should be admitted to bail, which Mr. Lupton agreed to.

Mr. Bale, solicitor to the Post Office, prosecuted.

Royal Worcester & BON TON Kidfitting Corsets

AUTUMN'S SUBTLE FIGURE CHANGE

WITH November, every kind of apparel acquires a new importance, for this is the first month of Autumn's becoming styles—the month when everybody expects to see everybody else arrayed anew. But this Autumn there is a subtle change in the corset line which you must watch for if you are to be seen at your best. The new Royal Worcester Corsets, always a full season ahead of any other make, have that subtle touch, and the passing season's favourite models now have it incorporated.

Some ladies imagine that so long as they go to an exclusive draper's, and pay a high price for a corset, they can be sure of having the correct line. Never was there a greater mistake. Such corsets are expensive not because they are superior—for they are not—but because so few of them are sold, and those few have to make fabulous profits for the firm. To satisfy yourself of this, ask to have a selection sent you on approval; try them on; compare them with the new Royal Worcester Corsets costing less than half the price. It will be a revelation to you. You will be completely convinced that no other corset at any price can compare in beauty and smartness with the Royal Worcester.

The BON TON Corsets are the highest grade of the Royal Worcester make

BOXING.

BENNY THOMAS v. MIKE BLAKE.

For the opening event of the season at Hoxton Baths yesterday, Benny Thomas, of Llanelly, a tough, rugged, little fellow, who has the distinction of having given Jimmy Wilde one of his hardest fights, and Mike Blake, of Notting Hill, met in a 20-rounds contest. It was a long-drawn-out affair, not very clever or interesting. Blake, making full use of his good left, did the scoring at long range, while Thomas relied on his strength at in-fighting. There were several rough passages, which necessitated the referee remaining in the ring, but there was never much between the lads, and in the end the verdict was, very fittingly, a draw.

BILLIARDS.

REECE v. FALKINER.

Reece was holding a lead of 752 when the third heat of the tournament was continued at Burroughes' Hall, St. James's street, London, yesterday afternoon. This he increased to 1,248 at the interval by scoring 645 against 209, his average being 129, and his best breaks 261 and 333 (unfinished). Falkiner's best was 85. Interval scores: Reece (rec. 500) (in play), 6,886; Falkiner (rec. 500), 7,607.

Closing scores:—Reece, 9,541; Falkiner, 8,405.

SMITH v. NEWMAN.

Resuming their match at Leicester square, London, yesterday afternoon, Newman, by totalling 1,046 to the champion's 459, regained some lost ground. Playing cleverly, Newman made breaks of 316, 201, 155, and 74 (unfinished). Smith increased his 77 (unfinished) to 126, but did little beyond 101. Interval scores:—Smith, 8,439; Newman (rec. 500), 7,441.

Closing scores:—Smith, 9,173; Newman, 8,121.

Lord Belhaven and Stenton died on Sunday at Wishaw. Born in 1840, he was formerly a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Royal Engineers, and saw service during the Zulu War of 1879.

LAW REPORTS.

DUKE AND BIRRELL GRANTS.

A TEACHER'S CLAIM.

In the Nisi Prius Court, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Dodd and a city special jury, the case of Wilders v. Whitty and another came on for hearing. The plaintiff was Patrick D. Wilders now engaged as a teacher in Scotland, and the action was brought against Rev. Brothers Whitty and Duggan, of the Order of Christian Brothers, to recover £260 in respect of services rendered to the Order, as secondary teacher, in the years 1917 and 1918, at a salary of £130 a year. From the statement of Mr. Swayne, K.C., with whom was Mr. Kinahan (instructed by Mr. Arthur C. Houlihan and Mr. W. J. Menton), for the plaintiff, it appeared that Mr. Wilders had been a member of the Christian Brothers Order, and that as such he was not entitled to any remuneration except his board and lodging and clothing. When the Birrell and Duke grants to secondary teachers in Ireland came into operation the Christian Brothers received their share of it for the secondary teachers in their employment. In order to obtain the grant it was necessary for the heads of the Order to show that they paid their secondary teachers at the minimum rate of £130 a year. Of these teachers the plaintiff was one, and he signed a contract with the two defendants, on behalf of the Order, that he was to be paid a salary of £130, plus board and lodging. On the 17th April, 1918, the plaintiff received a cheque for £130 for that year's salary. The plaintiff endorsed the cheque, and handed it back, and the defendants alleged that it was in the nature of a gift to the Order. That would have been all very well if the plaintiff had remained a member of the Order, and no question whatever would have arisen. With the full approval of the Order the plaintiff received from Rome an indult of secularisation, and he retired from the Order, and was now a teacher in a Catholic school in Scotland. Under these circumstances it was not right that the Order should withhold that £130 from the plaintiff. With regard to the second year's salary which was sued for, the Christian Brothers' defence was that they had not returned Mr. Wilders' name on the list sent to the Intermediate Board, as he was about to leave the Order, and that, therefore, they had not received a grant in respect of him. But the plaintiff said that that was not his fault, but the fault of the defendants, and that he had worked as usual, for the period, at the Brothers' school, North Richmond street, and that, therefore, he was entitled to his salary, now that he was out in the world. The defence was that the claim of the plaintiff was duly satisfied by the payment on the 17th August, 1918, of £130 to the plaintiff, which sum the plaintiff handed over as a gift to the Rev. Brother Duggan. In the alternative, the defendants pleaded that the plaintiff in or about January, 1919, applied for an indult of secularisation to leave the Order, which he duly obtained, and that by the rules of the Order he was not entitled, on leaving, to any remuneration for services rendered.

The plaintiff, Mr. Wilders, was examined, and the agreement contract between the plaintiff and the defendants to pay the salary of £130 per annum was produced. It appearing that the document had not been stamped, the plaintiff's solicitor at once paid to the officer of the Court £11 0/6 revenue duty and fees. The plaintiff gave evidence that he had been engaged on secondary school work in Clonmel from September, 1917, for a whole school year. In April, 1918, he received a cheque for £130 from Brother Duggan, his superior, and having endorsed his name on it he handed it back to Brother Duggan. In July, 1918, he became ill, and he was sent to their convalescent home at Baldoyle. He was not fit to resume work until the end of November. He was then sent to the O'Brien Institute. From that he was sent to Youghal, and on the 6th January, 1919, he was transferred to the North Richmond Street School, and he worked there until the end of the scholastic year. He received no remuneration for the second year.

In cross-examination by Mr. Carrigan, the plaintiff said that he joined the Christian Brothers' Order in October, 1895. It was a fundamental principle of the Order that the poor should receive gratuitous instruction, and from the day that he entered the Order he had from year to year to make a vow that he would teach the poor gratuitously. That was a solemn vow taken on each Christmas Day. In 1906, when he was 26 years of age, he became a full member of the Order, and took the perpetual vow which was that he was to devote himself to the gratuitous instruction of the poor, that he was to own nothing that he could dispose of, and other regulations. He had promised to keep this vow during his whole life, and he regarded it as a very solemn act. He knew that the Birrell grant was held back because of the difficulty of making it available for religious as well as for lay teachers. It was made perfectly clear to witness and to the other brothers that the forms that were necessary for religious brothers to sign were forms that were required by the Government in order to qualify for the grant. He understood that it was in order that the brothers may obtain the grant it was proposed that the cheque from the Education Board should be made payable to the teacher engaged in secondary teaching, and that the cheque should be returned to the Order. It would be a breach of his vows to insist upon retaining the money represented by the cheque, and, therefore, it was in compliance with his obligation that he, as a member of the Order, handed back his cheque to his superior.

To the Judge—His superior could not make any arrangement by which he (plaintiff) could get any benefit for himself or enter into any contract contrary to his vows.

The Judge—Did Mr. Birrell know about this?

Mr. Carrigan—He did.

The Judge—The same thing is in vogue in England.

The plaintiff, answering further questions, said that it was in April, 1919, that he took it into his head to leave the Order, and he replied to an advertisement offering his services, and the papers offering his services, and set forth his qualifications. At the close of the evidence for the plaintiff, Mr. Carrigan asked the judge to direct a verdict for the defendants on the grounds that there was no contract between the plaintiff and defendants, also that if there was a contract that the plaintiff in his evidence admitted that he had been paid for the first year, and that in respect of the second year the plaintiff had not proved any service in any school to which the contract referred. The Judge refused to give direction, and the further hearing of the case was adjourned till to-day.

TIPPERARY WILL CASE.—Before Mr. Justice Dodd the case of Mrs. Julia Meagher and Patrick Leonard, as executors of the will of the late Mrs. Nano Carroll, Royal Hotel, Tipperary, who died on January 24th, 1919, against Mary O'Brien, was settled. The plaintiffs, who were brother and sister of the testatrix, sought to establish her will dated January 9th, 1919, by which she left the hotel, stock, and furniture to Miss Nellie Mullins, her niece, who had been managing the establishment for her, in conjunction with Miss Bridie Mullins, her sister. There were legacies of £200 to Miss B. Mullins and £100 to Mrs. O'Brien, another niece (a daughter of the defendant, who is a shopkeeper at Mitchelstown). The defendant, who was sister of the deceased, contested the will originally on the three usual grounds, and added a charge of undue influence later. All pleas, including that of undue influence, were withdrawn, and the defendant consented to the will being proved. Mr. James G. Skinner, solicitor, Mitchelstown, proved the execution of the will, and said that the testatrix was perfectly competent. Rev. D. Keogh also testified to her mental capacity, and Miss Minnie Walsh, an employé in the hotel, also gave evidence. The Judge made a decree admitting the will to probate. Counsel for the plaintiff—Mr. Carrigan, K.C., Mr. Swayne, K.C., and Mr. Kinahan (instructed by Mr. J. F. D'Arcy). For the defendant—Mr. Healy, K.C.; Mr. Sealy, K.C., and Mr. J. Kenny (instructed by Mr. T. F. O'Brien).

DUBLIN COMPANY'S CAPITAL REDUCED.—In the Chancery Division, before Mr. Justice Powell, in the matter of the Irish Boot Manufacturing Co. and John Malone, Ltd., Mr. Costello (instructed by Mr. T. Montgomery) applied on petition on behalf of the company for an order confirming a reduction of the capital of the company, which carries on the business of boot and shoe manufacturers and dealers in leather and leather goods at 67 and 68 North King street, Dublin. The original nominal capital of the company was £10,500, divided into 10,500 shares of £1 each. The company issued 7,427 of these, of which 300—issued in error—were cancelled by Mr. Justice Powell, and 52 were cancelled by the company for non-payment of calls. By a special resolution, duly passed and confirmed, the company decided to reduce their capital by cancelling the paid-up capital, which was unrepresented by available assets to the extent of 10/- of each share. Mr. Justice Powell made an order confirming the proposed reduction of the capital, and directing that the capital of the company should be 6,911 shares of £1 each, instead of the original capital. Mr. Costello mentioned that the reduction of capital in no way affected the rights of creditors. His lordship also made an order dispensing with the necessity for using the words "and reduced" after the name of the company.

INTIMIDATION IN TIPPERARY.—In the Chancery Division, before the Master of the Rolls, in the matter of the estate of Richard Draper, late of Clamalitha, Co. Tipperary, and Catherine Draper and others was listed for the consideration of tenders for the purchase of part of the lands of Grallagh, containing 26 acres odd, and part of the lands of Turtulla, containing 28 acres odd, situate in the barony of Upper Ormond, Co. Tipperary. Three tenders were received. Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald (instructed by Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons) appeared for Mr. George Powell, of Knockmeal, Nenagh, who had put in a tender, and asked that he should be given leave to withdraw. Counsel stated that after his client had put in the tender he was visited by seven armed and disguised men, who put him down on his knees and made him swear that he would have nothing to do with the farm. The Master of the Rolls gave Mr. Powell leave to withdraw, and made a similar order in the case of Mr. Patrick Phelan, of Foilnamuck, for whom a representative of Messrs. Gleeson and Son, solicitors, appeared. He said that this property would not be sold until this part of the country was reduced to some state of order. Mr. Phelps (instructed by Mr. J. A. Doyle) appeared for Mrs. C. Draper; Mr. Megan (instructed by Messrs. F. M. Pitt and Co.) for Mr. W. Draper, and Mr. James O'Brien, solicitor, was for Mr. Victor Draper.

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

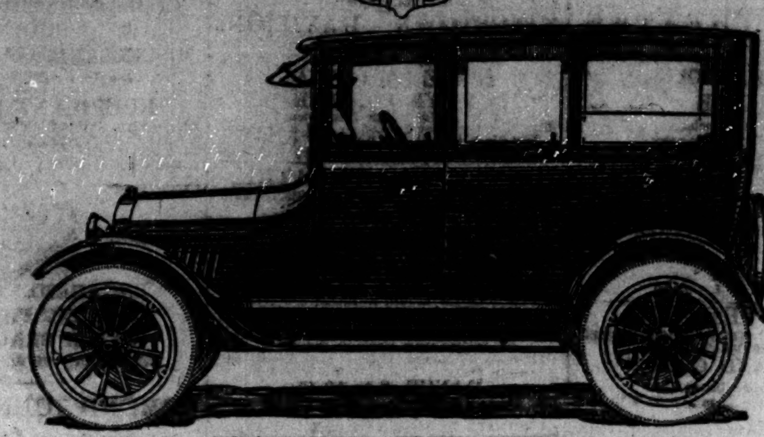

OMNIBUS SERVICE FOR BELFAST WORKERS.—The Belfast Corporation yesterday decided to purchase six motor omnibuses at a cost of £800 each to supplement the tramway service in the Ballymacarrett district, for the benefit of the shipyard workers.

BELFAST UNITED SERVICES FUND.—The Belfast District Committee of the United Services Fund, which was formed last July for the purpose of dealing with the expenditure of Belfast's share of the profits of the Expeditionary Force canteens during the war, has almost concluded its labours, and the sum of £6,000, received as part of this allowance, has been divided amongst various hospitals in the city.

NEW BELFAST SOLICITORS.—At the Belfast Recorder's Court yesterday, two new solicitors were introduced to His Honour Judge Matheson. Mr. Cotton introduced Mr. Samuel Watson, M.C., son of the late Mr. Samuel Henry Watson, Dublin, who served his apprenticeship with his uncle, Mr. Alfred Goodbody (Messrs. A. and L. Goodbody, Dublin), and qualified in 1913. Mr. Harper introduced Mr. Edmund J. Alexander, son of Mr. John Alexander, solicitor, Belfast.

BELFAST CORPORATION AND THE ULSTER PARLIAMENT.—At Belfast Corporation meeting yesterday the recent decision to defer taking action in the matter of the promotion of a bill in Parliament for powers to construct new tramway lines, etc., came up for review. Alderman Sir Crawford M'Cullough, in moving the recommendation of the Council in Committee, said that it would be possible to carry through a bill at Westminster in the winter. When the new Ulster Parliament was set up the first work that should properly come before them would be a bill from that Corporation. An amendment to proceed with the bill at Westminster was defeated by 27 votes to 17.

DUBLIN HOUSING.

Sir Andrew Beattie, D.L., in dealing with "Civic Finance" at the Rotarians' luncheon in Dublin yesterday, concerned himself largely with the Dublin Corporation's housing aspect of it. The fact that the Corporation, which was a superior body to the former one, was obliged to carry out various Acts of Parliament without the Government contribution was, he said, chiefly the cause of the increase of rates. But there were contributory causes—the charging of uneconomic rents for the houses owned by the Corporation and a possibly smaller output of work by employés than similar workers gave for the same pay in private employ. A recent Act of Parliament in England permitted the increase of rents by 25 per cent. plus rates; Dublin Corporation had increased rents by only 15 per cent., including rates. The penny in the pound housing rate yielded on present valuation, roughly, £4,600 a year, whereas the burthen of housing upon rates was £52,000. A better way of dealing with the matter would be to allow the occupiers to become their own landlords, say, by depositing a third of the house value and being allowed to borrow the balance from the Government. Sir Andrew added that the city had changed greatly for the better since it lost its rigid form of politics. The Sinn Fein Party was not what it was regarded as in certain quarters. It was composed of honest men, among whom was no jobbery, and he admired their work even though he might not agree with their view. He ventured to believe that so long as finances were maintained, within a few years the rates of Dublin would again become normal. Just now a Committee was busy whose aim was not to retain in the Corporation any man for whom there was no work. He believed that admission to the Corporation service should be regulated on a Civil Service basis.

Dr. E. M. Fannin, President of the Club, was in the chair.

RESTRICTIONS ON IMPORTATION OF POTATOES INTO IRELAND.

The Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland have made an Order under the Destructive Insects and Pests Acts, 1877 and 1907, prohibiting the importation into Ireland of potatoes from Great Britain or abroad, save under licence, to be obtained from the Department by the consignee in Ireland. This Order comes into operation on the 15th inst. The object of the Order is to provide additional safeguards against the introduction of the very serious disease of black scab into this country, and also to secure that imported potatoes purporting to be varieties approved by the Department as immune to this disease are true to name and free from impurities. Forms of application for licences and forms of declaration, and copies of the Department's list of approved immune varieties of potatoes can be obtained on application to the Department.

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1920.

On Sunday night and Monday morning a police officer and five policemen were killed in various parts of Ireland and eight constables were wounded.—(P. 5.)

District Inspector Kelleher, R.I.C., who was shot dead in Granard on Sunday night, had been a captain in the Army, and saw much service during the war.—(P. 5.)

Constable Herbert Evans, who was shot dead at Killorglin, Co. Kerry, was the son of ex-sergeant W. G. Evans, of the Royal Irish Rifles, Cheviot avenue, Belfast, and was formerly a telegraphist in the Belfast General Post Office.—(P. 5.)

The County Hall, which was built in Tralee some years ago at a cost of £12,000, was destroyed by fire on Sunday night.—(P. 5.)

House-wrecking by men in uniform took place in the town of Tipperary on Sunday night, and the damage is estimated at several thousand pounds.—(P. 5.)

Dr. O'Doherty, Roman Catholic Bishop of Clonfert, has addressed a letter to Sir Hamar Greenwood with reference to recent incidents at Loughrea, County Galway.—(P. 6.)

Replying to Mr. Devlin in the House of Commons yesterday, Sir Hamar Greenwood said that not a hundred, but two houses were burned in Templemore on Friday night last. The police had been thanked for assisting in extinguishing the fires.—(P. 6.)

The Prime Minister yesterday assured Mr. Devlin that, so long as eye-witnesses of alleged reprisals were unwilling or afraid to give evidence, an "impartial" inquiry would be useless.—(P. 6.)

In the House of Commons yesterday the Empire Exhibition (Guarantee) Bill and the Juvenile Courts (Metropolis) Bill were read a second time.—(P. 6.)

Mr. Hogge was told in the House of Commons yesterday that Mrs. J. Annan Bryce was arrested by order of the Competent Military Authority in Ireland on suspicion of having certain documents in her possession.—(P. 4.)

The first results of the coal ballot from South Wales indicate a probable majority in favour of the settlement terms.—(P. 4.)

In fifty of the principal results of the English municipal elections so far announced the Conservatives gained 14 seats, Liberals 13, and Labour 32.—(P. 4.)

In Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday, the Rev. Canon J. G. F. Day, M.A., Incumbent of St. Ann's Church, Dublin, was solemnly consecrated Bishop of Ossory, Ferns, and Leighlin, in succession to the newly-appointed Archbishop of Dublin (Dr. Gregg).—(P. 6.)

Professor Elliott Smith, at the Royal College of Surgeons yesterday, delivered a lecture on the "Influence of Stereoscopic Vision on the Evolution of Man."—(P. 6.)

At the monthly meeting of the Belfast Corporation yesterday, the Lord Mayor (Councillor W. F. Coates) gave a survey of the Corporation's present financial position, and impressed upon the members the necessity of economy.—(P. 6.)

Recruiting for the new force of Special Constabulary, which is to be enrolled for the six counties of Ulster, opened yesterday for the County Borough of Belfast and County Tyrone.—(P. 4.)

Kevin Barry was executed in Mountjoy Jail, Dublin, yesterday, for the murder of Private Whitehead during an attack on a military lorry in North King street in September last.—(P. 5.)

Ten thousand Armenians are reported to have been massacred in the town of Hadjin, which has fallen to the Turks.—(P. 5.)

An official communiqué from Mesopotamia reports fighting on the Middle Euphrates, in which the 2nd Royal Irish Rifles were engaged.—(P. 5.)

The Stock Exchanges were closed yesterday. The London Money Market was working easily, and loans ranged from 4½ to 5 per cent. Discount rates were firmer. Both gold and silver advanced in price.—(P. 7.)

The American Election.

The American Presidential election will take place to-day. The whirlwind campaigns of the rival candidates came to an end yesterday, and never, even in American politics, has an election been fought with so much bitterness and spleen. Personal abuse of the most rabid kind has been bandied about between Messrs. Harding and Cox and their supporters. The "bosses" on both sides have searched the family cupboards of their opponents for long-forgotten skeletons, and the Democrats have gone so far as to allege that Senator Harding is an octoroon. All this sort of thing is very unedifying, and, coupled with the torchlight processions, the flag-waving, the drum-beating, and the hysteria of the yellow Press, makes a very bad impression on European minds. Politics, however, deal in facts, and America must be taken as she is. Millions of men and women in Europe and in Asia will be affected by the result of the Presidential election. Haggard women in Vienna and stunted children in Tiflis and Erzerum have as much to hope and fear as the London city man or the Russian exile. The choice of America's President is a matter of first importance to every country in the world. Whether Mr. Cox beats Senator Harding or Senator Harding beats Mr. Cox does not matter a row of pins so far as the personality of either is concerned. Neither is a man of outstanding ability, and both are mere tools in the hands of their respective "bosses." While there is virtually nothing to choose, however, between either the men or their official "platforms," one of them represents what has come to be known as "Wilsonism" and the other its antithesis—"Americanism."

To-day's voting will decide whether President Wilson's rather nebulous ideals will crystallise into practical politics or be blown down by the winds of pan-American reaction. It is true that the "platforms" of Messrs. Harding and Cox have been amended in such a way as to become almost as identical as two peas; but when the election is over "platforms" will be forgotten. The real issue is between the Wilson scheme for the regeneration of the world and the Republican counterpart. If Mr. Cox becomes President, America will finish the task which she began three and a half years ago. She will join the League of Nations—on conditions bien entendu; she will help the lame dogs of Europe and Asia over the formidable stiles which stand between them and happiness; and she will sink her national prejudices in the prosecution of a great ideal. If Senator Harding wins, on the other hand, America will devote most of her energy and resources to the service of her own affairs. Europe and the world may, or may not, get what is left, but the Republican policy is to interfere as little as possible in other nations' business, and its victory will have the effect of lifting America almost completely out of the hurly-burly of this wicked world. So far as the British people are concerned, they would prefer, naturally, a Democratic victory; but they are quite prepared for Senator Harding's triumph. There has been a great deal of loud talk during the election campaign, and anti-British propaganda has been used indiscriminately by both parties. The British people, however, recognise that their bond with America is too strong to be broken, or even harmed, by political catch-words. Therefore, they refuse to be alarmed by the threats of terrible things which have been made by Democrats no less than by Republicans, and await the result with equanimity.

The betting in favour of Senator Harding is quoted in New York as about five to one. Twelve States of the Union, it appears, will vote solidly for Mr. Cox, nineteen will vote for Senator Harding, and seventeen are doubtful. Mr. Cox's States send 136 delegates to the Electoral College which chooses the President, Senator Harding's States send 253, and the doubtful States send 142. Therefore, in order to win, Mr. Cox will need to capture every one of the seventeen wavering States—a feat which consensu omnium is next to impossible. Of course, there always is the element of chance, and there also is Mr. Eugene Debs. Either of these factors may exert a large influence on the result of the election. Mr. Debs is a convict. He also is the Socialists' candidate for the White House. That he has no chance of success is clear, but he will poll a large number of votes, and every vote cast for him will be one less for either Mr. Cox or Senator Harding. Mr. Debs is a more striking personality than either of the chief candidates. His policy seems to be a pot-pourri of the ideas of Parsival and Mr. Jim Larkin, and is very attractive in many people's eyes. The fact that he is in gaol undoubtedly will help his candidature in many quarters, and competent observers predict that he will poll as many as three million votes. While, therefore, Senator Harding's election is highly probable, it is not certain. There are millions of voters—especially women—in America who do not care twopence about the League of Nations or foreign affairs of any kind. They are deeply interested in the cost of living and kindred subjects, and may express their dissatisfaction with both great political parties by voting as a protest for Mr. Debs. Whatever happens, however, one thing is certain. The result of to-day's election will set the course of international politics for the next fifty years. Four years hence the League of Nations either will be in working order or it will be dead and buried. Consequently, if America intends to join it at all, she must join it now.

Lithuania and the League.

It is announced that the Polish Government has given its conditional assent to the League of Nations proposal to hold a plebiscite in the Vilna area. A refusal was not expected. The Poles stand to gain much if the unhappy people whose homes and lands have been overrun by Zeligovski and his insurgents vote in their favour, and will lose nothing if the vote goes against them. Vilna always has been a Lithuanian town. It is the historic capital of the State, and, although a majority of the inhabitants may speak the Polish language, the Poles have no more right to it than Britain has to New York. The agreement made at Suvalki a few months ago defined Vilna's position as a part of Lithuania, and there is no good reason why Poland should not abide by it. The trouble never would have arisen but for the Warsaw Government's apparent inability to control its military forces. When Lithuania was invaded because a Bolshevist army had assembled there, the Poles gave guarantees that, after they had dealt with their enemy and made the position secure, they would retire behind the frontier. General Zeligovski, however, seized Vilna and refused to leave it. The Warsaw Government denounced his conduct, but took no disciplinary action against him. In effect it disowned him and supported him at the same time. Lithuania invoked the aid of the League of Nations, and the League suggested a plebiscite. It was, we admit, in a difficult position. It still is, in Mr. Asquith's phrase, "a fleshless and bloodless skeleton," devoid of the power to impose its will, and, therefore, it could not compel Poland to deal with the rebel general in the proper fashion. If it had possessed authority commensurate with its responsibilities, it could have settled the dispute in twenty-four hours. A little gentle pressure from the financiers and diplomatists of the West would have met the case. So far the Lithuanian Government has not given its assent to the holding of a plebiscite. Probably it is waiting for a definite statement from the League concerning the manner of the vote. A great deal depends upon that point. Some recent plebiscites have had most unfortunate results, and by no stretch of the imagination could be regarded as reflecting the will of the people. Many of the voters in the Vilna area are ignorant peasants without political experience, and the form of voting, therefore, must be as simple as possible. It has been suggested that every village shall vote in mass meetings, at which the Poles would go to one side of the road and the Lithuanians to the other. This plan, no doubt, would be intelligible to a primitive population, but, if the spirit of local nationalism is so strong as some people say, it might result in a free fight instead of a free vote. Besides settling the form of the vote, the League, if it means business, must be able to say that the plebiscite will settle the quarrel for all time. If a vote were taken and one party refused to abide by it, the League would become a mere laughing-stock. The miserable intrigue at Vilna, therefore, affects not merely Poland and Lithuania, but every country that has subscribed to the League's Covenant.

Silent Gallipoli.

Five years ago the hopes and fears of the British race were centred in Gallipoli. To the friends of thousands of Irish and Australian soldiers its geography was more familiar than the geography of England. To-day it is once more a lonely peninsula, deserted save by the faithful dead and the dutiful guardians of their graves. A correspondent of The Times has visited the place, and describes some recent changes. There was a rumour at the period of the evacuation that we had paid the Turks £2,000,000 in return for an uninterrupted withdrawal. Disproof of the fantastic story exists to-day in the twenty-mile fence of barbed wire which, after the evacuation, the Turks stretched from Suvla Bay to Cape Helles. A motor road has been built from Kilid Bahr, overlooking the Narrows, to the left flank of the old British battle-front on the slopes of the Ægean. Many traces of the fighting remain. Sunken ships lie around the coast; the trenches at Lone Pine are intact, and the remnants of war material decay in the corrosive air. Activity in the peninsula is confined to the work of the Imperial War Graves Commission. The Peace Treaty with Turkey gives to the British Government exclusive rights of ownership in certain areas of land where British soldiers fell in action. The bodies have been concentrated into twenty-six main cemeteries, but the permanent construction of these is only in the initial stage. In the meanwhile they have temporary wooden crosses, and are being kept in good order. The correspondent visited the cemeteries at Anzac Beach, Walker's Ridge, Shrapnel Valley, Chanak Bair, sacred to the unknown dead, and Suvla Bay—names that will live while the Empire endures. There, in a storied silence, the same blue sky covers the heroes of 1915 and the heroes whom Homer sang.

Autumn's End.

Nature's processes usually are gradual. The seasons glide into one another as youth glides into middle life and the middle years into old age. In the present year, however, we have stepped quite abruptly from golden autumn into the beginning of winter. The change came towards the end of last week. On one day we basked in brilliant sunshine. On the next a chill mist depressed our spirits, and we noticed suddenly what the sunshine had concealed—that the trees had become "bare, ruined choirs where late the sweet birds sang." The last fortnight of October was abnormally fine. By day the skies were cloudless, and at night the wayfarer through Dublin's lampless streets blessed a moon that sent him fearless and rejoicing along a path of luminous silver. The meteorologists tell us that we owed these mercies to an anti-cyclone which now, alas! has departed to Southern Russia. To-day we are the victims of deep disturbance from the Atlantic, that bears in its bosom gales and rain. We cannot hope for an early renewal of fine, settled weather. In any case, we must reconcile ourselves to the fact that we are in the month of fogs, and that winter has elbowed autumn into the limbo where the dead seasons go. October was pure gain, however—unless Nature chooses to cancel it next year with a cyclonic April.

THE ARREST OF MRS. ANNAN BRYCE.

STATEMENT BY SIR HAMAR GREENWOOD.

Mr. Hogge, in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Prime Minister whether Mrs. J. Annan Bryce was arrested at Holyhead on Friday by agents of the Government while on her way to a meeting at Tonypandy, Wales; thence deported to Dublin, and imprisoned in the Bridewell cells. If so, by whose authority, on whose instructions, and on what grounds was this action taken.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, who replied, said that the lady was arrested by the Competent Military Authority under the Restoration of Order in Ireland Act. She was suspected of having in her possession documents of a seditious character. She had documents upon her, but they were not considered sufficiently serious to lay a definite charge against her.

Mr. Hogge asked what power the Government had under the Restoration of Order in Ireland Act to arrest a British subject in England, as the Act applied only to Ireland.

The Speaker—That shows the danger of these supplemental questions. Notice should be given, as an answer will require research.

Mr. Hogge said that he gave notice of the question at half-past 11 that morning.

The Speaker—If the question is put in the ordinary way the hon. member will get a reply.

Mr. Hogge said that he would later move the adjournment of the House on the subject.

When Mr. Hogge asked leave to move the adjournment of the House in order to call attention to the arrest of Mrs. Annan Bryce at Holyhead, her deportation to Dublin, and imprisonment without charge under an Act of Parliament that applied only to Ireland, no more than 36 members rose in their places in support of the hon. member, and the necessary permission was refused.

KINGSTOWN DAY MAIL SERVICE RESUMED.

The R.M.S. Curraghmore arrived at Kingstown yesterday evening from Holyhead with parcels post and 52 passengers. There were no train arrangements made to accommodate the passengers, who had to walk to Kingstown Railway Station.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

It is hoped that the miners' ballot will result in a majority for the terms of settlement, but there is no certainty about it. South Wales, it is thought, will vote solidly against acceptance, but the votes there will be balanced by those of Yorkshire. Scotland is likely to have a deciding voice, for her vote on the last ballot was exactly split. If the Scottish miners accept the terms, all will be well when the delegates meet on Wednesday. It is thought by several of the miners' leaders that there will be a substantial majority, but they really have nothing to go upon. The extremists are working hard to upset their authority, and, if the terms are rejected, the miners' leaders will have to consider their position very seriously.

The Prime Minister hopes to attend the meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva this month, but his presence will depend entirely upon the situation at home. The coal strike is not yet settled, and there are several other outstanding matters to be settled before the Prime Minister can think of leaving London for any period. Consequently he will not make a decision until the meeting is much nearer.

Mr. Fisher stated to-day that the Government Liquor Bill was already drafted, and it was hoped to introduce it during the present session. A little sensation was caused by the Prime Minister's announcement that he had appointed a small committee to consider, inter alia, the closing of licensed premises and clubs on Sundays.

Sir H. Greenwood presented a very different version of recent incidents at Templemore from that presented by Mr. Devlin—only two houses had been burned, for example, not a hundred—and advised the hon. member to be more careful as to the sources of his information.

The Chief Secretary then read out a long and terrible list of the murderous attacks upon the police in Ireland during the week-end. At this Lord Henry Cavendish Bentinck exploded with, "Does not that point to the hopeless break-down of your policy?" Mr. Devlin renewed his demand for an English impartial inquiry into the facts of the alleged reprisals vouched for by newspaper correspondents, but the Prime Minister pointed out that, so long as eye-witnesses were unwilling or afraid to give evidence, such an inquiry would be abortive. "Until," he added, "the sense of the community is in favour of punishing murder it is useless to hold these public inquiries."

An attempt by Mr. Hogge to move the adjournment in order to call attention to the arrest of Mrs. Annan Bryce was unsuccessful. In ordinary times his point that she had been arrested in this country under the provisions of an Act that only applied to Ireland would have appealed to many members who are not ordinarily in sympathy with Mr. Hogge. But in the present serious situation most members are unwilling to do anything that may tend to weaken the authority of the sorely-harassed Irish Executive, and, when the Speaker asked if the hon. gentleman had the leave of the House, only thirty-six members stood up in his support, and the motion accordingly fell to the ground.

The Government intend to take full advantage of the opportunity afforded by the rapid passing of the Government of Ireland Bill through its Committee stage by bringing in and advancing a further stage several measures which otherwise would have had to wait until later in the session. One is the Shops (Early Closing) Bill, which is to be considered on report. It enables the present closing hours to be continued until the whole question of shop hours can be dealt with comprehensively. The Agriculture Bill, which comes to-morrow, is a big measure. There are already eighteen pages of amendments down, and many others are expected.

The London Gazette, now one shilling per number, is to be doubled in price, and the charge for this official publication will be 2s., or 4s., per week. Presumably there is a public for this old established newspaper, and probably one that will continue to take it in, no matter what the cost. The information it contains is of a kind that many people must see, while there is always a floating body of readers anxious to see their names in print as serving in His Majesty's forces. Frequently the Gazette contains information of a most important character, but it is never seen by those whom it most concerns. Last week it was announced that the endowments of some hundreds of livings had been increased by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, but the statement escaped general notice.

Evidence reaches the Lobby that many clergymen of the Church of England are supporters of the demand that evening hours for the sale of alcoholic liquors should revert to the "summer time" arrangement of from 7 to 10. Their explanation is that the Greenwich time hours now in force tend to discourage the attendance at church. Many men who take a social glass and a talk with friends after evening Service found that the time available for this relaxation is too short under 9 o'clock closing; consequently they stay away from church and go earlier to the public-house.

The Ministry of Health (Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, introduced by Dr. Addison, which comes up for second reading on Thursday, seems likely to have a chequered, if not stormy, career. To some of its proposals, such as that giving better chances of appeal against prohibition of work on alleged "luxury" building, there is no objection. It is different in the proposals for enabling local authorities to provide hospitals and ambulances, and to contribute to the support of any voluntary hospitals or similar institutions in their area. A strong and growing body of supporters of the Government hold that this means an alarming addition to rates, already excessive, and the opposition, of which notice has been given, to the second reading meets with a great deal of sympathy. This fact is not unknown in Government circles, and is certainly receiving serious attention there.

Only a number of small Bills were down for consideration this afternoon. The only measure which raised anything like a discussion was the Bill designed for the protection of women and young persons employed in industries involving the use of lead, and it was framed on the recommendations of the International Labour Organisation of the League of Nations. As the Bill stands, no young persons under eighteen years of age can be engaged in an employment which would involve them in the risk of lead poisoning.

Sir F. Banbury frankly objected to the interference of the League of Nations with trade and commerce, and Sir John Rees propounded the axiom that internationalism was the negation of patriotism.

The Bill was read a second time, as was also a Bill by which the Government guaranteed a contribution of £100,000 towards the British Empire Exhibition.

On the motion for the adjournment Mr. Hogge attempted to raise again the case of Mrs. Annan Bryce, but he had not been speaking long when the House was counted out.

SIR CAMPBELL STUART.

Sir Campbell Stuart has been appointed Managing Director of The Times. Sir Campbell, who is 35, was born in Montreal. He recruited in Canada the Duchess of Connaught's Own Irish Canadian Rangers, with which he visited Ireland; became Assistant Military Attaché to the British Embassy at Washington in 1917, and later was Deputy Director of Propaganda in enemy countries. Sir Campbell is a director of the Anglo-Newfoundland and Development Company.

It is officially announced that there will be two minutes' silence on Armistice Day throughout the United Kingdom, and, if possible, throughout the British Empire.

THE NEW ULSTER POLICE FORCE.

RECRUITING OPENED IN BELFAST.

CONDITIONS OF SERVICE.

Recruiting for the new force of Special Constabulary, which is to be enrolled for the six counties of Ulster, opened yesterday for the County Borough of Belfast and County Tyrone. The scheme has the approval of Sir Edward Carson and the Ulster leaders. The force is to be divided into three classes:—Class A, for which the number of men required will be comparatively small, being only a few hundred for the City of Belfast, is to be a whole-time force, and the men joining it will be required to join for the minimum period of six months. The weekly cash pay will be £3 17s. 6d., in addition to uniform and quarters, and an extra sum of nearly 10s. a week will be paid as a bounty in lieu of the pension rights at the end of the approved service. Married men will, in addition, receive another bonus of 6s., as well as an allowance of from 5s. to 11s. 6d. per week for rent, and 14s. per week separation allowance, if required to live in barracks apart from their families. These grants to married men are guaranteed to 31st March, 1921, but are subject to adjustment after that date, according to the variation in the cost of living. Men joining in this class will only be employed in the six Ulster counties, and will be armed and equipped as regular members of the Royal Irish Constabulary. In fact, it should be clearly understood that all these classes—whole-time, occasional, and emergency—will always be armed when on duty, and, in the case of death or injuries incurred in the performance of that duty, the Government will indemnify either themselves or their relatives.

Class B is a volunteer force, and will be under their own elected officers and N.C.O.'s, but in the execution of their duty will act under the control of the police authority of the area in which they are serving. It will be an unpaid force, as will also Class C, and the number of the two sections required for Belfast is estimated at ten thousand. The hours of duty will be so arranged as not to interfere with working hours. In addition to offers of personal service, the authorities invite offers of the loan of motor cars for temporary or occasional duty.

Notification of the enrolment of the new force is signed by the Lord Mayor (Cuncillor W. F. Coates), the Assistant Under Secretary, Sir Ernest Clark, and the Commissioner of Police for Belfast (Mr. J. G. Gelston).

THE OFFICERS IN COMMAND.

Colonel Charles George Wickham, D.S.O., has been appointed Commissioner for Ulster of the new Force. He is a former officer of the Norfolk Regiment, and is a native of Yorkshire. Lieut.-Colonel J. K. McClintock, D.L., of Omagh, has been appointed to the command of the Special Force for County Tyrone. Colonel McClintock is a well-known and popular Tyrone officer, and commanded the Special Reserve Battalion of the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers in Derry during the war.

THE MINERS' BALLOT.

SOUTH WALES IN FAVOUR OF ACCEPTANCE.

The first South Wales ballot return shows a majority in favour of the acceptance of the terms.

The voting in Blaenavon (Mon.) district, declared yesterday afternoon, was—For acceptance, 697; against, 557. Blaenavon miners, representing 5,000 members of the South Wales Federation, at a mass meeting yesterday passed a resolution advising their men to vote against acceptance of the Government's terms. Sixteen thousand anthracite miners, who voted solidly against acceptance of previous offers, are now being advised by their agent to accept the present terms as a temporary expedient.

Addressing the Durham miners, Mr. James Robson, treasurer of the Miners' Federation and President of the Durham Association, said that they stood to lose by a prolonged strike. It was now realised by every member of the Federation Executive that nationalisation, either through industrial or political effort, was a problem that would not be solved for the next ten years, because the majority of the rank and file had not given sufficient thought to the abstruse and complicated nature of the problem to enable them to arrive at a decision. By pushing industry near to bankruptcy through the strike did they not realise that the great mass of the people dependent upon it might be carried by an avalanche over the precipice?

The Bristol Miners' Executive yesterday decided unanimously to advise the men to accept the Government's terms.

At a special meeting at Wrexham yesterday the North Wales Miners' Association unanimously decided to recommend the men to vote in favour of the terms.

MR. HARTSHORN THREATENS TO RESIGN.

At a meeting yesterday of the Maesteg district miners, for whom he is agent, Mr. Vernon Hartshorn announced his intention to resign from the South Wales Miners' Federation Executive. This would involve his withdrawal from the Miners' Federation of Great Britain Executive and his severance from the miners' organisation. The meeting declined to accept his resignation, and asked him to reconsider the matter a month hence. Mr. Hartshorn's action was in protest against the allegations that he and Mr. Brace, by counsels of peace, were betraying the miners' movement.

A TECHNICAL POINT.

The Central News Lobby Correspondent writes:—Although I have reason to know that the private reports received from the districts by the miners' representatives in the House of Commons are hopeful in character, there is some reason to fear that a hitch may take place when the conference of delegates assembles to-morrow to receive the result of the ballot. It is feared, however, that a certain section of the delegates may refuse to accept the ballot results on the ground that the Federation Executive exceeded their powers in calling for a fresh ballot without having first called a conference of delegates. Should this hitch occur (and I am told that it is very probable) it does not necessarily mean that another crisis will develop. It will be in effect the final effort of the extremists to wreck the settlement, and it may conceivably mean a grave rupture in the solidarity of the Miners' Federation. I am assured, however, that the Executive (the majority of whom are out for peace) are prepared for such a hostile demonstration. Certain steps have been taken, I am told, that will be sufficient, if the ballot is for peace, to counteract the last stand of the "wild men."

EFFECT ON RAILWAY FREIGHTS AND FARES.

Mr. Higham having asked the Minister of Transport if the miners' strike had made any reduction in fares and freight charges during 1921 almost hopeless,

Sir Eric Geddes writes, in reply—The present strike has involved a serious loss of revenue, estimated at from £2,000,000 to £3,000,000 a week, and, even if work is speedily resumed, the loss of traffic and the dislocation of industry must continue to affect railway receipts adversely for some time to come. Other factors, such as the operation of the sliding scale for wages and the general trend of prices, must also be taken into account, and in all the circumstances I see no prospect of any reduction of railway charges in the near future. But the whole position will be most carefully reviewed before the end of the period of possession to see that the charges are not unduly high.

ENGLISH MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

LABOUR DISAPPOINTED.

In fifty of the principal results to hand at 11.45 the position of Party gains and losses was as follows:—Conservatives—14 gains, losses 31; Liberals—Gains 13, losses 35; Labour—Gains 32, losses 14; Independents—Gains 22, losses 4. Considering the bid for power by Labour (with as many candidates in the field as official Conservatives and Liberals put together) their successes considerably fell far short of Labour hopes and expectations. In some places they were rejected wholesale, and in no centre was there any solid change in their favour. Their gains were obtained almost equally from Conservatives and Liberals, while the Independents standing in most cases as rate reducers, also gained considerably from the orthodox Parties.

"PEACE WITH IRELAND COMMITTEE."

The Press Association learns that, as a result of a meeting at the House of Commons, with Lord Henry Cavendish Bentinck, M.P., in the chair, a Peace with Ireland Committee has been formed on non-party lines. The objects of the Committee are to collect, verify, and disseminate information as to reprisals and the methods of administration generally in Ireland, and to awaken public opinion to the facts; to organise relief to sufferers on both sides of the struggle in Ireland, and to promote measures tending to a permanent and peaceful settlement.

THE REFUSAL TO CARRY TROOPS.

LETTERKENNY-BURTON PORT RAILWAY CLOSED.

The Londonderry and Lough Swilly Railway Company have closed the Londonderry, Letterkenny, and Burton Port Railway indefinitely, owing to the refusal of the men to work trains carrying armed troops.

Many members of the British Colony in Paris yesterday made pious pilgrimages to the different cemeteries where British and Allied soldiers who fell in the Great War were buried.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The Times, in the course of a leading article to-day upon the Presidential Election in the United States, observes:—Whether Governor Cox or Senator Harding goes to the White House, there is, fortunately, no reason to suppose that the traditions of American policy at home or abroad will undergo any sudden and extensive subversion. The atmosphere in which the new Administration works will respond to the choice of the people, but upon whichever candidate the choice may fall the main tasks to be performed will be largely the same, and the probability is that they will be performed on not very dissimilar lines. Home politics, unquestionably, have seemed to fill the chief place in the thoughts of the electors during the campaign. President Wilson on his final return from Europe devoted his whole energy to making his foreign policy, as embodied in the Covenant of the League of Nations and other clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, the principal issue in the Presidential contest. Had his health remained unimpaired, he might, perhaps, have succeeded in doing so, but with his breakdown the Covenant became an embarrassment to Democrats and Republicans alike. The League in its present form has never obtained the favour of the masses. The means by which Mr. Wilson sought to compel ratification before they had obtained an opportunity to pronounce upon it aroused suspicion and dislike where they did not provoke indignation. The struggle to-day is expected to turn much more upon domestic than upon foreign or international questions, adds The Times. America has almost as many of these questions as the rest of us, and as she is less accustomed to them in their later developments, they perturb her more than they do older countries. She has questions between Capital and Labour, strikes, unemployment, high cost of living, high taxation, and other kindred troubles afflicting her citizens, and exasperating whole classes of them. She has tariff problem—which she may view with different eyes now that she has become a great creditor nation instead of a debtor—she has hyphenated problems, a negro problem, Socialist problems, and even a Bolshevist problem to be dealt with. It is these things that touch the "plain man" more than high politics, and it is the "plain man" in his hundreds of thousands who is electing the President and countless other elements in the vast and complicated machine of government to-day. There is the "plain woman," too, 18,500,000 of her, who for the first time can make her full weight felt at the polls. She may be more accessible to appeals to abstract principles, and to lofty ideals than the male elector, but she is, perhaps, even more alive to the many domestic worries of an economic kind which the war has left behind it. The proportion in which she will employ them will be not the least interesting or the least instructive feature in the contest to-day.

THE STATE OF IRELAND.

In The Times to-day long letters appear from Lord Dunraven and Lord Monteagle on Irish matters. The former, in the course of his letter, writes:—As circumstances over which I cannot exercise any control prevent me from travelling at present, perhaps you would kindly accord me space for one or two remarks on the resolution to be moved by Lord Loreburn on Tuesday next. The first part of the resolution needs no comment. We all know that the condition of Ireland is deplorable—utterly deplorable. We all know that disorder will be put down, and, while regretting the slowness of the operation, admit the difficulty the Executive have laboured under, in the fact that they have not received popular support. Into these matters I do not enter, but I must lodge a protest against Lord Hugh Cecil's contention, that this is due to "cowardice" on the part of the people. "Craven cowardice" is a strong term to apply to a man who refuses to give evidence, not merely at the risk of his life, but with the certainty that it would be forfeit, and it must be remembered that, however much the people may hate crime, crime in this case is being committed in furtherance of an object which the people have tried to obtain constitutionally, generation after generation, and have failed. You never can have a respect for law in Ireland, or in any other country, under a representative constitutional system so long as the source of the law is, in the opinion of the people, tainted. The law will be respected when it emanates from their own duly-elected Parliament, and the Executive will be sustained when it is depending upon that Parliament—and not till then.

Lord Monteagle, in his comments, asks to be allowed to tender his own experience in support of Lord Loreburn's motion, and confines himself to two cases with which he is personally acquainted, and which he believes are typical. The first case his lordship cites is that of the burning, on August 27th, of Shanagolden Creamery and two shops in the village. "The other case has been already described in your issue of the 22nd inst., but I venture to refer to it, as I visited yesterday, in a Dublin hospital, the principal victim of this particular deed of 'frightfulness,'" adds his lordship. He is the manager of a co-operative store a few miles from Galway, the most flourishing rural society of its kind in the three Southern provinces, to which he went to better himself from a poultry society here, where he won his spurs. I can myself, therefore, testify to his high character and veracity, and his strict avoidance, according to our co-operative rule, of politics. . . . Such are the persons, such are the enterprises, that are specially singled out for this policy of 'frightfulness' which the Government condones, though it dares not avow. This case has not yet come into Court, but affidavits have been sworn by the three victims, and I confidently predict that even the Chief Secretary will not question this wounded manager's story."

PROHIBITION AND TEMPERANCE.

The Times devotes one of its editorial articles to the local veto poll in Scotland to-day. One way or another, it says, England, Ireland, and Wales have a direct personal interest in the result of to-day's poll. In Scotland both sides have been making great exertions, and both sides still profess themselves confident of victory. Pending the decision let us try to arrive at a conclusion as to which side is really working in the best interests of the country, taking Glasgow as a test case. It may fairly be considered one of the strongest trump cards in the "no licence" hand. Drunkenness, it is generally admitted, has long been a blot on Scottish cities. The conditions, writes our Correspondent, under which liquor is sold in Glasgow seem specially arranged for the purpose of flinging into the streets at 9 o'clock an unseemly horde of drink-sodden men. On Saturday evening at one street corner he counted 37 obvious "drunks" in ten minutes, many of them young men. Their favourite beverage in repeated doses appears to be half-a-gill of neat whiskey, followed by a glass of beer. No wonder they get drunk. No wonder the ministers of the Scottish Churches in Glasgow and the editors of Glasgow newspapers are crying out for some radical change, appalled by the alternative prospect of "more years of the drunkenness and resultant misery that shame the fair name of Glasgow." There is a growing conviction in prohibition countries on the other side of the Atlantic that the desired end might have been reached by elimination of the bad type of saloon-bars—those in which nothing but drink, to the exclusion of food and recreations, could be obtained, proceeds The Times. There is also an increasing reaction against the rigid curtailment of personal liberty which prohibition involves, and it is more than possible that both the United States and Canada will in course of time partially retrace their steps, and, to some extent, make the question of drinking an affair of conscience and not of compulsion. Our Correspondent suggests that in Glasgow and the rest of Scotland the two extremist sections in the "no licence" struggle have not sufficiently reckoned with the strong moderate party which favours a reduction of the existing number of licences. It is possible that their opinion may prevail. That would, we believe, be the best, and, taking everything into consideration, the most useful decision.

FALL IN PRICES IN CANADA.

A message, dated yesterday, from The Times Toronto Correspondent states:—The movement towards lower prices and lower wages is general throughout Canada. The motor industries have dismissed many employés, and the Ford Motor Company at Windsor will work only four days a week for the present. At Montreal 20,000 garment workers will be asked to accept a reduction of 20 per cent. of their wages. If they refuse, it is believed that the factories will close next week. The boot and shoe industry is depressed, and the wages of the workers in these industries are dropping. The public are apparently convinced that, if they delay buying, many classes of goods will be cheaper, and there is, therefore, slackness in orders to manufacturers.

HOLLAND BUYING BRITISH AEROPLANES.

The Times Correspondent at Rotterdam sends the following message:—The Amsterdam Courant says that Fokker, the well-known aeroplane inventor, intends to leave Holland for America. His leaving Holland is due to his failure to conclude contracts with the Dutch Government necessary to enable him to keep his new Dutch aeroplane works running. The paper adds that the Dutch Government have given orders to British firms for a number of De Havilland and Avro aeroplanes.

Home politics, unquestionably, have seemed to fill the chief place in the thoughts of the electors during the campaign. President Wilson on his final return from Europe devoted his whole energy to making his foreign policy, as embodied in the Covenant of the League of Nations and other clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, the principal issue in the Presidential contest. Had his health remained unimpaired, he might, perhaps, have succeeded in doing so, but with his breakdown the Covenant became an embarrassment to Democrats and Republicans alike. The League in its present form has never obtained the favour of the masses. The means by which Mr. Wilson sought to compel ratification before they had obtained an opportunity to pronounce upon it aroused suspicion and dislike where they did not provoke indignation. The struggle to-day is expected to turn much more upon domestic than upon foreign or international questions, adds The Times. America has almost as many of these questions as the rest of us, and as she is less accustomed to them in their later developments, they perturb her more than they do older countries. She has questions between Capital and Labour, strikes, unemployment, high cost of living, high taxation, and other kindred troubles afflicting her citizens, and exasperating whole classes of them. She has tariff problem—which she may view with different eyes now that she has become a great creditor nation instead of a debtor—she has hyphenated problems, a negro problem, Socialist problems, and even a Bolshevist problem to be dealt with. It is these things that touch the "plain man" more than high politics, and it is the "plain man" in his hundreds of thousands who is electing the President and countless other elements in the vast and complicated machine of government to-day. There is the "plain woman," too, 18,500,000 of her, who for the first time can make her full weight felt at the polls. She may be more accessible to appeals, to abstract principles, and to lofty ideals than the male elector, but she is, perhaps, even more alive to the many domestic worries of an economic kind which the war has left behind it. The proportion in which she will employ them will be not the least interesting or the least instructive feature in the contest to-day.

THE STATE OF IRELAND.

In The Times to-day long letters appear from Lord Dunraven and Lord Monteagle on Irish matters. The former, in the course of his letter, writes:—As circumstances over which I cannot exercise any control prevent me from travelling at present, perhaps you would kindly accord me space for one or two remarks on the resolution to be moved by Lord Loreburn on Tuesday next. The first part of the resolution needs no comment. We all know that the condition of Ireland is deplorable—utterly deplorable. We all know that disorder will be put down, and, while regretting the slowness of the operation, admit the difficulty the Executive have laboured under, in the fact that they have not received popular support. Into these matters I do not enter, but I must lodge a protest against Lord Hugh Cecil's contention, that this is due to "cowardice" on the part of the people. "Craven cowardice" is a strong term to apply to a man who refuses to give evidence, not merely at the risk of his life, but with the certainty that it would be forfeit, and it must be remembered that, however much the people may hate crime, crime in this case is being committed in furtherance of an object which the people have tried to obtain constitutionally, generation after generation, and have failed. You never can have a respect for law in Ireland, or in any other country, under a representative constitutional system so long as the source of the law is, in the opinion of the people, tainted. The law will be respected when it emanates from their own duly-elected Parliament, and the Executive will be sustained when it is depending upon that Parliament—and not till then.

Lord Monteagle, in his comments, asks to be allowed to tender his own experience in support of Lord Loreburn's motion, and confines himself to two cases with which he is personally acquainted, and which he believes are typical. The first case his lordship cites is that of the burning, on August 27th, of Shanagolden Creamery and two shops in the village. "The other case has been already described in your issue of the 22nd inst., but I venture to refer to it, as I visited yesterday, in a Dublin hospital, the principal victim of this particular deed of 'frightfulness,'" adds his lordship. "He is the manager of a co-operative store a few miles from Galway, the most flourishing rural society of its kind in the three Southern provinces, to which he went to better himself from a poultry society here, where he won his spurs. I can myself, therefore, testify to his high character and veracity, and his strict avoidance, according to our co-operative rule, of politics. . . . Such are the persons, such are the enterprises, that are specially singled out for this policy of 'frightfulness' which the Government condones, though it dares not avow. This case has not yet come into Court, but affidavits have been sworn by the three victims, and I confidently predict that even the Chief Secretary will not question this wounded manager's story."

PROHIBITION AND TEMPERANCE.

The Times devotes one of its editorial articles to the local veto poll in Scotland to-day. One way or another, it says, England, Ireland, and Wales have a direct personal interest in the result of to-day's poll. In Scotland both sides have been making great exertions, and both sides still profess themselves confident of victory. Pending the decision let us try to arrive at a conclusion as to which side is really working in the best interests of the country, taking Glasgow as a test case. It may fairly be considered one of the strongest trump cards in the "no licence" hand. Drunkenness, it is generally admitted, has long been a blot on Scottish cities. The conditions, writes our Correspondent, under which liquor is sold in Glasgow seem specially arranged for the purpose of flinging into the streets at 9 o'clock an unseemly horde of drink-sodden men. On Saturday evening at one street corner he counted 37 obvious "drunks" in ten minutes, many of them young men. Their favourite beverage in repeated doses appears to be half-a-gill of neat whiskey, followed by a glass of beer. No wonder they get drunk. No wonder the ministers of the Scottish Churches in Glasgow and the editors of Glasgow newspapers are crying out for some radical change, appalled by the alternative prospect of "more years of the drunkenness and resultant misery that shame the fair name of Glasgow." There is a growing conviction in prohibition countries on the other side of the Atlantic that the desired end might have been reached by elimination of the bad type of saloon-bars—those in which nothing but drink, to the exclusion of food and recreations, could be obtained, proceeds The Times. There is also an increasing reaction against the rigid curtailment of personal liberty which prohibition involves, and it is more than possible that both the United States and Canada will in course of time partially retrace their steps, and, to some extent, make the question of drinking an affair of conscience and not of compulsion. Our Correspondent suggests that in Glasgow and the rest of Scotland the two extremist sections in the "no licence" struggle have not sufficiently reckoned with the strong moderate party which favours a reduction of the existing number of licences. It is possible that their opinion may prevail. That would, we believe, be the best, and, taking everything into consideration, the most useful decision.

FALL IN PRICES IN CANADA.

A message, dated yesterday, from The Times Toronto Correspondent states:—The movement towards lower prices and lower wages is general throughout Canada. The motor industries have dismissed many employés, and the Ford Motor Company at Windsor will work only four days a week for the present. At Montreal 20,000 garment workers will be asked to accept a reduction of 20 per cent. of their wages. If they refuse, it is believed that the factories will close next week. The boot and shoe industry is depressed, and the wages of the workers in these industries are dropping. The public are apparently convinced that, if they delay buying, many classes of goods will be cheaper, and there is, therefore, slackness in orders to manufacturers.

HOLLAND BUYING BRITISH AEROPLANES.

The Times Correspondent at Rotterdam sends the following message:—The Amsterdam Courant says that Fokker, the well-known aeroplane inventor, intends to leave Holland for America. His leaving Holland is due to his failure to conclude contracts with the Dutch Government necessary to enable him to keep his new Dutch aeroplane works running. The paper adds that the Dutch Government have given orders to British firms for a number of De Havilland and Avro aeroplanes.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS THE PREDOMINANT ISSUE.

CANDIDATES AND THE IRISH QUESTION.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

A Reuter's New York telegram of Sunday says:—With the League of Nations as the predominant issue, the political campaign for the Presidency of the United States has been marked by a spirit of bitterness unusual even in the closest fights hitherto experienced.

President Wilson scarcely could have anticipated the torrent of personal abuse and the flood of minor issues that have flown upon his call for a solemn referendum upon the question of the participation of the United States in the League of Nations.

Notwithstanding the rancour which has characterised the controversy, close political observers are agreed that, whatever the decision of the electorate as between the two principal candidates, the eventual participation of the United States in the movement to produce world peace is assured. Governor Cox, the Democratic candidate, has repeatedly declared in favour of the League Covenant substantially as now drafted, although not averse from reservations defining its application to the United States.

Senator Harding, Republican nominee, while avowedly seeking the rejection of the Covenant in its present form, has proposed in his political utterances an Association of Nations, which he has defined only in general terms, in which the United States could join.

The Irish movement in Britain probably for the first time in the national political campaign in America has been a factor in the contest. Governor Cox has contented himself with expressions of sympathy for the aspirations of the Irish people, and pledged himself, if a way is ever opened, to bring their political demands to the attention of the League of Nations. Senator Harding, on the other hand, has declared that the Irish question was a drastic issue with Britain.

Prohibition has been a lesser issue. Leaders of both parties are predicting victory at the polls, but the figures presented in support of the prospective Republican triumph seem to be more largely justified by unofficial canvasses. Betting has also continuously held strong for the Republican candidate, odds of 5 to 1 in favour of Senator Harding being generally quoted by the Press.

Universal women's suffrage has injected a new element into the present election, which may possibly upset certain standard calculations.

In twenty-four States members of the American Senate are to be chosen, while the total membership of the Lower House is to be elected. Women candidates have been nominated for both Houses. Governors are to be elected in thirty-seven States.

REPORTED MASSACRE OF ARMENIANS.

TEN THOUSAND KILLED.

Reuter's Agency learns that Armenian circles in London have just received a telegram from Mersina, via Cyprus, dated October 27th, stating that the town of Hadjin has fallen, and that about 10,000 Armenians, who had been holding out against the Turkish Nationalists since last March, have been massacred.

Reuter's Agency learns that a British telegram from Constantinople announces that the Turks have been defeated by the Armenians at Igdir. The telegram adds that severe fighting is proceeding, and the situation in the Armenian Republic of Erivan must be regarded as serious.

ANGLO-FRENCH RELATIONS.

COMPLAINT AGAINST BRITISH PRESS CAMPAIGN.

A Reuter's Paris telegram of Monday says:—At the moment, says the Temps, when we have the satisfaction of realising that the difficulties which arose between Paris and London on the subject of the procedure to be followed in the execution of the Peace Treaty are on a fair way to a settlement, certain organs of the British Press consider it opportune to begin an extremely active campaign, not against one another or French politicians, but against France herself, and the aspirations she traditionally represents to the world. We do not confuse those two or three organs into the British Press as a whole, nor do we regard them as the authorised interpreters of British opinion, which remains faithful to the spirit of the Entente, and values French friendship as it should. The campaign against France which has been undertaken by certain London newspapers proceeds from an absolute misunderstanding of the political objects of our Government, and of the sentiments of the French people. It is alleged that Europe is covered with French military missions, that Poland has been ruined by French encouragement, that peace has been rendered impossible with Russia by French support of General Wrangel, that Hungary has become a French military advanced post, and even that in consequence of the Franco-Belgian agreement Antwerp is once more a danger to Britain. All these charges against French policy fail before a conscientious and impartial examination. They are part of a systematic campaign which, while ostensibly accentuated by a deep concern for peace, is really tending to compromise all the positive guarantees of peace.

The Temps asks our British friends to reflect that this campaign is to the advantage of the enemy of yesterday, who refuses loyally to execute the peace which we imposed on her together on the conclusion of victory.

POLES AND VILNA.

Reuter's Agency learns that a Warsaw telegram states that the Polish Government has accepted the proposal of the League of Nations to hold a plebiscite in the Vilna district.

PEASANT RISING IN RUSSIA.

A Stockholm telegram to the Echo de Paris reports serious disorders throughout Russia. The peasants are rising, and, armed with rifles, are attacking the railway trains, and killing all the passengers for not wearing a cross on their breasts.

WRANGEL SUFFERS REVERSE.

A Reuter's Constantinople telegram of Monday says:—General Wrangel's forces are falling back behind the Perekop lines. Their withdrawal will be completed on Wednesday. One of General Wrangel's divisions has suffered heavy losses at Kharkhov. The estimated Bolshevik forces consist of 140,000 troops.

THE CASTLEDALY AMBUSH.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

Our Loughrea Correspondent writes:—Further inquiries into the ambuscade at Castledaly, about seven miles from Loughrea, reveal that about fifty men, who were in small groups on either side of the road, took part in the affray. It appears that the raiders' ammunition became exhausted in the early stages of the attack, and hand-to-hand fights ensued. An unsuccessful attempt was made to shoot Constables Dunne and Gilmartin with their own rifles. Sergeant O'Driscoll, who escaped after discharging the contents of his revolver at the attacking party, led the patrol, and was followed in single file by Constables Horan, Keane, Dunne, and Gilmartin. Constable Horan, who was the first policeman wounded, sought refuge in a graveyard close by, where he was pursued by his assailants and shot dead. His rifle was afterwards taken. Constable Keane, who received bullets in the chest and right arm, was seriously wounded, and was later removed to Dublin for treatment. After discharging one round of ammunition at the assailants, Constable Dunne, who was also wounded, was overpowered, and his rifle was seized. Remarking that he knew them, and that it was better to kill him, one of the attacking party, it is said, made an attempt to shoot him with his own rifle. After a desperate struggle, Constable Dunne broke away, and, with Sergeant O'Driscoll, got to Kilchreest Barrack, where they reported the matter. Constable Gilmartin, whose rifle was also seized, engaged in a hand-to-hand struggle with the raiders, who tried to hold him after an attempt to shoot him with his own rifle. The constable later arrived at Kilchreest Barrack minus his tunic, which was torn off in the struggle. The policemen's rifles, with the exception of Constable Keane's, and their bicycles were seized by the raiders.

A man named Ireland, residing at Castledaly, was subsequently arrested, and conveyed in a motor lorry to Kilchreest Barrack, with the remains of Constable Horan.

Five houses belonging to farmers residing in the vicinity of the ambush, were burned on Saturday night. In the early hours of Sunday morning houses of prominent Sinn Feiners in Loughrea were searched. On Sunday afternoon four young men named McQuaide, Raftery, Smith, and Leahy were arrested.

SERIES OF ATTACKS ON POLICE.

ONE OFFICER AND FIVE MEN KILLED: EIGHT WOUNDED.

MILITARY OFFICER FIRED ON NEAR KILLENAULE.

REPORTED REPRISALS IN TRALEE, TIPPERARY, DUNGANNON, AND OTHER TOWNS.

Official reports which reached Dublin yesterday from many parts of Ireland were of the gravest character. An apparently pre-arranged series of outrages was carried out, and several policemen lost their lives, while many others were badly injured.

On Sunday night and Monday morning armed attacks were made on no fewer than fifty-two policemen. The attacks were not confined to any particular county or district. They occurred in counties as widely separated as Donegal and Kerry.

A police officer and five policemen were shot dead, and eight others were wounded, some of them seriously. In the County Kerry three constables were killed, and one each in the County Tipperary and King's County.

District Inspector Kelleher, who was shot in a hotel in Granard, had not been long in the police force. Before entering it he held the rank of captain in the Army, and distinguished himself on the Western and other fronts during the war.

Some hours after the shooting of a constable in Tralee armed men came on the streets, firing shots from their rifles. The new County Hall, a fine building, and a house known as "The 1916 Shop" were burned to the ground.

Shops also suffered and shots were fired in Dungannon, where a constable was wounded; and damage estimated at several thousands of pounds was done to property in the town of Tipperary.

THE OFFICIAL REPORTS.

The following official reports reached Dublin before noon yesterday:—

A police patrol, consisting of a sergeant and three constables, at Killybegs, was attacked by a strong armed party. The police returned the fire, and the attackers fled after firing about fourteen shots. One constable was wounded.

District Inspector Kelleher was shot dead in Tiernen's Hotel, Granard, County Longford, at 9 o'clock on Sunday night.

Sergeant Henry Cronin, Tullamore, was fired upon and seriously wounded at half-past 7 o'clock on Sunday night when returning to his barracks. He received three bullet wounds in the chest, and died in the County Infirmary at a quarter to 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

A police patrol was fired upon at Dungannon at a quarter to 11 on Sunday night by an ambush party. One constable was killed.

At 10 p.m. on Sunday night Constables Caseley and Evans, of Killorglin, were shot dead.

A police patrol was fired upon on Sunday night in the village of Ballyduff, Co. Tipperary. One constable was killed and another was wounded.

A police patrol from Abbeydorney, Co. Kerry, was attacked on Sunday night. Constable Madden was shot dead, and another constable was seriously wounded by being shot in the head.

A police patrol was fired upon in Tralee, Co. Kerry, on Sunday night. One constable was wounded.

Another patrol at Listowel, Co. Kerry, was fired upon. No casualties were sustained by the police.

A wireless message received at Tralee Police Station stated that two Royal Irish Constabulary constables had been wounded as the result of an attack at Causeway on Sunday night.

A police constable was fired upon and seriously wounded at Kielty at 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon while returning from Athlone.

Two constables were fired upon at Thomastown at 9.45 p.m. on Sunday night. Both escaped uninjured.

Littleton Police Barrack, near Thurles, was captured on Sunday, and the five constables in charge of it were taken prisoners.

In addition to the attacks on the police, an attempt was made to shoot a military officer at Killenaule on Sunday night. Details are lacking, but it is said that one of the attackers was killed.

DISTRICT INSPECTOR MURDERED.

BODY RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

SCENE IN GRANARD HOTEL.

Our Longford Correspondent, writing yesterday, says:—News reached Longford at a late hour last night that District Inspector Kelleher, of the Granard district, had been shot dead at 9 p.m. in the diningroom of Kiernan's Hotel, Granard, where he occupied apartments. The report was officially confirmed this morning, and a large party of military and police left for the scene in motor lorries.

The deceased officer was riddled with bullets, fired at close range, and he died almost immediately. He had been recently appointed District Inspector. He held the rank of Captain in the Army, in which he served with distinction in France, gaining the M.C. and other honours for gallantry. He was a member of an old and respected County Cork family, a Roman Catholic, and was very popular with the law-abiding community in the Granard district.

At first Mass in Longford Cathedral on Sunday morning, some hours before the murder of District Inspector Kelleher, Dr. Hoare, Bishop of Ardagh, made a strong appeal to the congregation to refrain from the commission of any crime which would bring disgrace on the county. He laid particular stress on the shooting of policemen, and added that the murder of a policeman or soldier might mean the destruction of their fine old Cathedral town, which up to the present sustained an unblemished record.

Telegraphing late last night, our Granard Correspondent states that District Inspector Kelleher was only 23 years of age, and had been stationed in Granard for a few months. He was a quiet and popular officer, and was unarmed when his life was taken. He was in company with Messrs. L. D. Kiernan, Paul Cusack, B. Macken, and Sean Cawley when two masked men entered the hotel and fired point blank at the officer. Four bullets entered his body. The gentlemen who were in his company rendered every possible assistance, and a priest and doctor were in immediate attendance. Canon Maguire, P.P., administered the last rites of the Church, and death took place about ten minutes afterwards.

It is stated that shots were fired at a sergeant and constables who came up the street after the murder. The people of Granard deny that anyone from the district took part in the crime.

A large force of military arrived in Granard in the morning and shots were fired. Canon Maguire, speaking at last Mass, asked the people to pray for the murdered officer and also to pray that the murderers would repent of their terrible crime. He said that he had called upon the military officer and gave him his confident assurance that no one in that parish had had hand, act, or part in the deed, and he had got an assurance from the officer that there would be no reprisals.

The people are leaving the town. To-day was market day here, but the streets were deserted and the business houses remained closed.

TULLAMORE TRAGEDY.

DEATH OF THE WOUNDED SERGEANT.

Coroner Conway and a jury opened an inquest in the County Infirmary, Tullamore, yesterday, on Sergeant Cronin, R.I.C., who was shot on the previous evening when leaving his own home for the police barrack, and died afterwards in the infirmary.

Evidence of identification was given by Head Constable Shea, who stated that the deceased sergeant was stationed in Tullamore since 1916, and was 46 years of age.

Mrs. May E. Cronin, the widow, deposed that her attention was attracted at about a quarter to eight o'clock on Sunday night by four shots, which she heard in less than five minutes after her husband had left the house. She ran out in the street and met him, and he fell into her arms, saying "I'm shot, I'm shot." He had a small revolver, but did not use it.

Dr. Meagher deposed to the wounds on the body. He found six bullet holes in the body, three of which he believed were entrance wounds.

In reply to Inspector Ross, the doctor said that there was a wound in the neck to the right of the windpipe, the bullet coming out at the top of the shoulder blade. The second wound was in the stomach, and the third one was in the right forearm. Death was caused by shock and hemorrhage. The shots were fired at close range, as the clothing was singed.

The jury found:—"We unanimously agree that Sergeant Henry Cronin died from bullet wounds received on the 31st October, inflicted by a person or persons unknown, and we strongly condemn such an outrage being committed in our midst. We desire to convey our sincere sympathy to the widow and family of the deceased."

A WILD NIGHT IN KERRY.

ATTACKS ON POLICE.

MANY CASUALTIES.

Telegraphing last night, our Tralee Correspondent stated:—A reign of terror prevailed in Tralee and in other towns and villages in Kerry last night. In Tralee Constable McCarthy was wounded in the knee about 10 o'clock. About the same time a naval wireless operator was shot at and wounded in the arm and thigh at Moyderwell street.

Constable Madden, a native of Newcastlewest, was shot dead in Abbeydorney village, and Constable Gonly was dangerously wounded.

An attack on a police patrol at Ballyduff resulted in one constable being shot dead and two constables wounded. In the village of Causeway two constables were wounded. In Killorglin two constables were shot dead.

Following the shootings in Tralee military with trench helmets and policemen arrived in motor lorries, accompanied by an armoured car. Later in the night the County Hall was set ablaze and was burned down. Volleys of shots rang out through the night, and people were terrified. The house known as the "1916 Shop" was also burned.

THE NORTH KERRY DISTRICT.

Our Listowel Correspondent telegraphs:—Information has reached Listowel that the police barrack at Ballyduff was attacked on Sunday night at a late hour, with the result that one of the policemen was shot dead and four others were wounded. Early yesterday morning the village was visited by military and police. It is reported that the creamery and some of the principal business houses of the village were destroyed by fire.

In the seaside village of Ballybunion considerable uneasiness was caused by the firing of several shots. Some windows were struck.

The roads leading to Ballyduff and Ballybunion were blocked and the bridges blown up, thus rendering it very difficult for the military to enter those places from outside: It is stated that the name of the dead constable is Morgan. One of the wounded constables, M. Reidy, who was shot through the head, is a native of Clare.

TWO CONSTABLES KILLED IN SOUTH KERRY.

Our Killorglin Correspondent telegraphs:—The town of Killorglin has been alarmed by the ambushing of two constables on Sunday night at Hillville, about half a mile from the town. They were returning from leave, and were in civilian clothes.

Shots were heard from the direction of Hillville about 10 o'clock, and when the police went to investigate the occurrence they found the bodies of two of their comrades lying in a pool of blood. Both were dead. The bodies were taken to the barracks. Shortly after this shots were fired intermittently until about 5.30 in the morning. The Sinn Fein Hall was set on fire, and the garage adjoining, which contained three cars, a char-a-banc, and two motor cycles and much property belonging to Messrs. Foley, and the Temperance Association Hall, with its furniture, were completely burned. Mr. D. M. O'Sullivan, the Square, was taken from his house and shot, receiving four wounds. He was found bleeding and taken into a house, where he was medically attended. His condition is serious. The residence adjoining the school was completely destroyed with its contents. Mr. F. McCollum, Miss McCollum, and Miss Daly, who reside there, were away for the week. Many of the houses of Sinn Feiners were visited, but the "wanted" men were not found. The shop doors and windows in several places were broken. One arrest was made. Many of the residents are leaving the town with their belongings for the night.

Rev. Father Nolan, P.P., condemned the shooting in very strong terms from the pulpit, and prayed for the repose of the souls of the deceased constables. Rev. Father Jones, C.C., also condemned the shooting. The deceased constables are Constable Evans, Belfast, about 26 years of age, and Constable Caseley, a native of London. They were only a short time in the Royal Irish Constabulary. Only one of them had arms at the time of the ambush.

QUESTIONS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

SOME ARRESTS MADE.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, questioned in the House of Commons yesterday by Colonel Allen regarding the occurrences in Ireland during the week-end, read out the official reports given above.

Lord H. Cavendish-Bentinck—Does not that point to the hopeless breakdown of your policy?

There was no reply.

Sir H. Greenwood, answering other questions, said that he knew that some arrests had been made.

POLICEMAN SHOT IN DUNGANNON.

RIFLE FIRE AND BOMB-THROWING.

Our Dungannon Correspondent writes:—Serious disorders took place in Dungannon during Sunday night, and there was little sleep for any of the inhabitants. It appears that shortly before midnight a police patrol, consisting of a sergeant and three constables, was on street duty, and had halted at the corner of Scotch street and Church street when three shots rang out from Wilson's lane, a narrow alley connecting Scotch street with Irish street, a Nationalist quarter. The volley took effect, Constable Martin Hoban, a native of Westport, with seven years' service, being shot through the right leg. The patrol immediately advanced at the "double" down both Scotch street and Irish street, firing their revolvers as they went, but the assailants succeeded in making their escape. The police conveyed their wounded comrade to the barracks, where he was promptly attended by Surgeon Marmion, J.P., and was afterwards removed to Dungannon District Hospital. A large force of fully-armed police then issued from the barracks, and searched the residences of many well-known Sinn Feiners.

Quiet reigned until 1.30 a.m., when a large number of armed and disguised men invaded Irish street, throwing hand grenades and discharging rifles and revolvers. They passed through Union place, Irish street, Wilson's lane, Scotch street, and Church street. Pandemonium reigned for upwards of an hour, and mingled with the terrific explosions could be heard the screams of frightened women and children. The bombs were discharged on the street, and none of them were thrown into private houses, but the following places of business and dwellings were wrecked:—Miss Flannigan, newsagent, Scotch street; Oscar Hoffstead, barber, Church street; Michael Cavalin, poulterer, Perry street; John Moore, poulterer, Perry street; while the shop window of William J. McManus, confectioner, Scotch street, was smashed with a bullet while the police were repelling the attack early in the night.

The explosions were heard for miles, and the countryside was much alarmed as factory horns in outlying districts were sounded under the impression that a general rising had taken place. Through the night, in spite of most inclement weather, parties arrived in the town from the country in search of information. Many families made their way into the country, and there was little rest for any of the inhabitants. The injured constable is a well-known handball player, and a popular member of the force. On inquiry at a late hour it was found that he was progressing favourably.

At daybreak the following notices were found posted in Wilson's lane and Shamble lane:—"Any person found in this entry after dark will be shot."

Monsignor Dean Quinn, P.P., at the conclusion of High Mass in St. Patrick's Church, this morning, said that he was very sorry to hear of the occurrence that took place on the previous night. He was fully convinced that the person who fired the shots intended to kill the policemen, and was a murderer in his heart. Some time after, men, whom he believed were policemen, committed outrageous and brutal attacks on the homes of innocent people who had nothing to do with the affair. He sympathised with those people, and felt sure that the congregation sympathised with the people whose homes were partially wrecked. He counselled the congregation to remain indoors at night.

OUTBURST IN TIPPERARY.

MANY SHOPS DAMAGED.

A telegram from Tipperary last night states: A party of fifteen or twenty men, who are alleged to have been soldiers, did great damage in Tipperary town last night, apparently as a reprisal for the ambush of a lorry of the Northamptons at Thomastown. The shops that suffered are principally in Main street and O'Brien street. In Main street the following houses were attacked:—Mr. J. W. Kissane, medical hall, windows smashed, and goods damaged to the extent of £350. At Mr. A. J. Duffner's watchmaking and jewellery establishment, an entrance was effected through the window by smashing the shutters. The damage is estimated at £2,000. Mr. Robert Seales's watchmaking and jewellery establishment was almost completely wrecked, and the damage is put down at £2,000. A clock taken out of one of these establishments, marked at eight guineas, was hurled through the fansash of Mr. Robert Costigan's hardware establishment, and a silver teapot was flung through the window over Mr. P. Hogan's licensed and grocery premises. A glove factory, where discharged soldiers were employed, also suffered loss, and the plate glass windows were also smashed in Mr. T. Kerwick's grocery establishment, Mr. John Doherty's stationery house, and Mr. John Conway's drapery house. In Church street Mr. P. J. Moloney's medical hall and Mr. M. Tynan's tobacco warehouse suffered, and in O'Brien street Miss Burke's millinery house, Mr. John Dalton's agricultural machinery establishment, and Mr. Bryan O'Donnell's stationery and tobacco establishment. In Bridge street, windows were broken in the establishments of Butler Brothers, Bank place; P. McGarry's, L. Hayes', and Messrs. Ryan's Engineering Offices, Davis street.

CIVILIAN KILLED IN TIPPERARY.

OFFICER AND THREE SOLDIERS WOUNDED.

A Press Association telegram states—During a brisk exchange of shots in the street at Killenaule, near Thurles, Thomas Donovan was killed and an officer and three soldiers were wounded. Donovan, who was identified with the Volunteers, had been "on the run" for some time.

CONSTABLE SHOT NEAR ATHLONE.

Telegraphing yesterday, our Athlone Correspondent states:—Constable Doyle, while returning from Athlone to his station at Clonark last night, was fired at and received wounds in the face and body. He was removed this evening to Dublin for special hospital treatment.

During Sunday night it is reported that shots were fired into several houses between Athlone and Ballinasloe. The farmstead of Mrs. Lennon at Cranagh, Athlone, was visited, and her house and furniture set on fire and completely destroyed. Two of her sons, John and Thomas, were imprisoned some time ago.

THE CAPTURE OF A POLICE BARRACK.

POLICEMEN MADE PRISONERS.

Our Thurles Correspondent telegraphs:—Regarding the capture of Littleton Police Barrack, it is said that three armed raiders, who were undisguised, "rushed" the guard. Some of the garrison were at dinner, and the others were on patrol at the time. The attack started at 3.30 p.m., and caused tremendous excitement in the village and the district. The guard having been taken by surprise, armed raiders appeared on all sides, and dashed into the barrack. Two policemen attempted to seize their rifles, but were forestalled by the raiders, who covered them with revolvers. All of the policemen found in the barrack were lined along the wall, and forced to put their hands over their heads. With great rapidity, the raiders searched the building, seized 23 rifles, 160 hand grenades, several revolvers, and bayonets, together with a big haul of rifle and revolver ammunition. This booty was conveyed to waiting motor cars, and taken away. The barrack was then set on fire, the police being allowed to carry off their personal belongings. Before the burning took place, the policemen's boxes or trunks were searched, the raiders stating they wanted to see if there was any ammunition there. The barrack books and records were scrutinised and then burned. All handcuffs found in the place were seized. The garrison, having been deprived of their belts and accoutrements, were marched out of the captured post in charge of armed raiders, and conveyed to a house about a mile from Littleton. They were ordered to remain there for an hour. It is stated that the raiders were courteous to their prisoners, who were not insulted or molested in any way. Just as the barrack started to burn, three policemen on patrol, knowing nothing about the capture, arrived in the village. A number of children, who were playing on the streets, prevented what would probably have been an attack on the patrol, who, it is stated, were screened by the children. There was no attack, no shots were fired, and the patrol was allowed to retreat. The whole coup was effected in the space of ten or twelve minutes.

There was subsequently great activity by the police and military, and armed lorries and cycling patrols traversed all the roads. Later in the night, flames were seen in the direction of Littleton. What damage, if any, has been done has not yet transpired. Last night windows in the Tipperary Star newspaper office and J. McLoughney's drapery establishment were smashed by having grenades thrown through them.

From Middleborough, Massachusetts, comes the following information:—Count Magri, known as the Italian dwarf, 37 inches high, second husband of Mrs. Tom Thumb, died here on Sunday night.

EXECUTION OF KEVIN BARRY.

SAD SCENES AT MOUNTJOY PRISON.

CONDEMNED MAN'S LAST MOMENTS.

Last night the following communiqué was issued from the Chief Secretary's Office, Dublin Castle:—

The sentence of death by hanging passed by Court-martial upon Kevin Barry, or Berry, medical student, aged 18½ years, for the murder of Private Whitehead in Dublin on September 20, was duly executed this morning at Mountjoy Prison, Dublin.

At a Military Court of Inquiry held subsequently in lieu of an inquest, medical evidence was given to the effect that death was instantaneous.

The Court found that the sentence had been carried out in accordance with law.

Sad scenes were witnessed in the vicinity of Mountjoy Prison, Dublin, yesterday morning, when the young medical student, Kevin Barry, was executed within the prison, having been found guilty by courtmartial of the murder of Private Whitehead in the course of an attack by a party of armed men on soldiers in charge of a military lorry outside Monks's bakery establishment last September. From soon after six o'clock a crowd began to collect outside the prison. Shortly before seven o'clock the Very Rev. Canon Watters, President, Clonliffe College, chaplain to the prison, and the Rev. Matthew MacMahon, assistant chaplain, arrived and remained standing outside the entrance until the door was opened at 7.0 a.m., and they were admitted. An armoured car took up a position on the North Circular road, and kept moving about in proximity to the ever-growing crowd. A lorry filled with armed soldiers was also in the vicinity.

As the hour of eight o'clock approached there were some 2,000 people gathered about the prison entrance. A party of about 100 girls assembled in Dorset street, and marched up the North Circular road four abreast, and mingled in the crowd. Several women began to recite prayers aloud, while the men uncovered their heads and uttered the responses. Otherwise the thoroughfare was quiet, and the murmur of the prayers could be heard for some distance along the roadway. At eight o'clock the prison bell began to toll, and immediately there was a movement in the crowd. Everyone—men and women, youths and girls—knelt down upon the muddy roadway, and the chorus of prayers became louder and more fervent. Many of the women were in tears, and even men displayed signs of emotion. While the prison bell was tolling the crowd remained on their knees. One of the first to leave the prison at about 8.30 o'clock was the Very Rev. Canon Watters. The reverend gentleman was immediately surrounded by a number of weeping women, and was himself obviously moved. Shortly afterwards the usual final notice intimating that the execution had taken place was posted on the prison door, and many gathered round to read it.

FINAL SCENE IN THE PRISON.

The prisoner spent the night in the condemned cell, a large apartment comprising three ordinary cells let into one. With him in the cell were two members of the Auxiliary Constabulary, and a prison warder. When Canon Watters and Father MacMahon entered the cell young Barry greeted them calmly and cheerfully. On Sunday evening he had, with the assistance of a warder, erected an altar in the cell. Canon Watters celebrated Mass at this altar, and administered the Sacrament to the prisoner. The chaplain then knelt down beside Barry and said prayers, while Father MacMahon celebrated a second Mass. Some of the Roman Catholic members of the auxiliary police and warders were present at the religious celebrations, and a few of them also received the Sacrament. When the second Mass was over the chaplain sat beside the condemned man reciting short prayers, to which Barry fervently responded. About ten minutes were thus passed in prayer, and then, at eight o'clock, the executioner and his assistant entered the cell. The prisoner rose and submitted without resistance to the process of pinioning his arms with leather straps. No other restraint was put upon his limbs, and while the pinioning was in progress the chaplain put his arm about the young man, and continued to pray, the prisoner responding in a firm voice. After about half a minute the executioner addressed the chaplain, saying:—"Are you quite done, Father?" Canon Watters responded in the affirmative, and Kevin Barry immediately took up a position between the chaplain and Father MacMahon, and walked firmly out of the cell, and towards the execution chamber, followed by the executioner, his assistant, and the prison officials. The execution was over in less than half a minute. While the rope was being placed round his neck and the cap over his eyes in the execution chamber the two priests stood beside the prisoner, and continued to pray. Then the bolt was drawn. Shortly afterwards Father MacMahon descended into the pit, and offered prayers beside the dead body of Kevin Barry.

NO INQUEST HELD.

No inquest was held on the body of Kevin Barry, and representatives of the Press were informed on inquiry at Mountjoy Prison that they should refer to the military for information with regard to the matter.

It is understood that the body, encased in a coffin, was interred within the walls of the jail at 1.30 p.m. yesterday. The Very Rev. Canon Watters, prison chaplain, and Rev. Father MacMahon, assistant chaplain, officiated at the graveside. Before the interment, the ground in which the coffin was laid was consecrated by the Roman Catholic clergy. The relatives of the executed man were not admitted to the final religious ceremonies.

The following is the text of the notice which was affixed to the prison gate:—

"The sentence of the law passed on Kevin Barry, found guilty of murder, was carried into execution at 8 a.m. this morning.

"By Order."

DUBLIN CORPORATION'S SYMPATHY.

At a meeting of the Dublin Corporation yesterday Alderman Cosgrave moved the adjournment, and said that, in view of the sad event that had happened in the city that morning, it was the intention of the members of the Council not to hold any meeting, but to adjourn as a mark of respect. He formally moved a vote of sympathy with the family of Kevin Barry, and contented himself with saying "May the Lord have mercy on his great and noble soul."

Mr. Murphy, seconding, said that Ireland had lost a noble son and a bright, courageous soul.

Mrs. Wyse Power, Mrs. Alderman McGarry, and others joined in expressing their sympathy, and the resolution was passed unanimously, all the members standing.

A resolution of condolence with the family of the late Mr. John Carolan was also adopted.

INCIDENTS IN THE PROVINCES.

Seven young men were arrested in the town of Cavan yesterday.

There was no case for hearing at the last Moneygall Petty Sessions.

Searches were made for Volunteers by the military at Coosan, near Athlone, on Sunday night.

On Sunday night in the parish of Moone, near Ballinasloe, the Sinn Fein hall and a dwelling-house were burned.

Armed raiders at Katesbridge seized the mails on the train from Belfast yesterday morning and carried them away.

Michael Gray, a hunger-striker, who was released from Mountjoy Jail, has been arrested by the military in Maryborough.

Boyle Workhouse has been taken over by the Royal Irish Constabulary Auxiliary Force as quarters.

Many letters were delivered in Fermoy on Saturday, bearing on the envelopes "Censored by I.R.A."

At Kilmurray and Ballintubber, in the Castlerea district, some people were searched by the military yesterday soon after they had left the churches.

Patrick McKenna, an employé at the Waterford Railway Station, has been arrested by the military on a charge, it is alleged, of being in possession of ammunition.

A number of the Special Auxiliary Police have taken possession of a house in the Square, Listowel, the property of Mr. William Henigan, M.R.C.V.S., who purchased it recently.

Private Crummy, one of the three men of the Northampton Regiment who were recently killed in an ambush in County Tipperary, was buried in Tipperary yesterday. He was a native of the town.

The funeral of Michael Scanlan, of Galbally, who was killed while trying to escape from custody at Limerick, took place at Castlejane, near Knocklong, on Saturday. Soldiers removed the tricolour from the coffin and limited the funeral to fifty cars.

It transpired yesterday, says the Press Association, that Miss Jose Collins, the musical comedy actress, who is playing a leading part in "The Southern Maid," at Daly's Theatre, London, was married to Lord Robert Innes Ker, brother of the Duke of Roxburghe, last Wednesday.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

THE PASSING OF A BOHEMIAN.

One of the last of the Bohemians, whose personality will be missed by circles of friends wide as were his own interests at the Bar, in social life, and in many fields of sport, has been removed by the death, which occurred at Southampton yesterday, of Mr. Walter Bradford Woodgate, in his eighty-first year. By the death of Mr. Woodgate a picturesque personality passes from the precincts of the Temple. The days have gone when he might have had rivals in the characters whom Charles Lamb met in King's Bench Walk. He was the last of an old, vigorous, and "tut-tut" style of lawyer, sportsman, and gentleman. It was as an oarsman that Woodgate was chiefly known to the public, and he had rowed in two Oxford winning boats in the early 'sixties. He was also the founder of Vincent's at Oxford, to become a mere member of which seems glory enough to many an undergraduate.

THE FUTURE OF VILNA.

A Reuter's Warsaw telegram of Monday says:—The Ministry of Foreign Affairs announces that a Commission, consisting of members of the Diet and the Government, has accepted the proposal of the League of Nations that a plebiscite should be held to decide the future of Vilna. The statement adds that the Government does not contemplate any disciplinary methods against General Zeligowski. M. Ivanowsky, a Director of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Vilna, has left for Warsaw, where he will represent General Zeligowski's Government.

A MEXICAN REPARATION FOR MURDER.

A Reuter's telegram, dated Washington, Monday, says it was learned there that Great Britain has agreed to the settlement of the claim against Mexico, which arose out of the murder of Mr. William S. Benton, a British subject, near Jaurez, on February 17, 1914. Under this settlement Mexico is to pay ten thousand dollars cash to Mrs. Benton, the widow, in addition to a daily pension of 2½ dollars as long as she does not marry again.

NEW YORK COTTON GAINS.

A Reuter's telegram, dated New York, Monday, says:—Cotton gained 80 to 100 points on the firmness of Liverpool buying, unfavourable weather reports, and firmer spot markets.

LONDON BOXING CONTESTS.

There was no event of outstanding importance in the programme of the National Sporting Club last evening, the principal turn being a fifteen rounds' contest between Johnny Murton (Plymouth) and Robert Diamant, the Fernch flyweight, with a ten round bout between the new heavy weights, Alf Bright, of Kingsland, and Phil Suffling (Herne Bay), for the second event.

The big men put up a very poor show, so poor, indeed, that after eight rounds of hugging and clinching the referee stopped the contest and declined to give a decision.

Murton beat Diamant on points. The winner was always on top, his two-handed hitting being altogether too fast for the Frenchman.

Heavy-weight boxers provided the chief attraction at the Ring, Blackfriars, last night, Harold Ralph, the Canadian, meeting Charlie Penwill (Grenadier Guards) in a twenty rounds contest. The match went the full distance, but the boxing was poor on both sides, more particularly on the part of Penwill, who was constantly holding. Ralph outclassed his opponent and won very easily on points at the finish.

MESOPOTAMIA.

ROYAL IRISH RIFLES IN ACTION.

A communiqué from the War Office last evening regarding the situation in Mesopotamia reports:—

In an attack on Kufas Camp (Middle Euphrates) on the night of the 26th-27th by a strong insurgent force, who suddenly opened heavy fire at 400 yards range, the 2nd Royal Irish Rifles, 1/116th Mahrattas, and a machine gun company drove off the assailants, who were heavily shelled while retreating, and suffered estimated casualties of over a hundred.

Two columns of all arms carried out a successful drive on the 27th in the area between the Museyib and the Khanmahawil Canal, capturing 800 insurgents and much live stock.

In North-West Persia the Persian Cossacks retired behind the British troops on the night of the 25th-26th.

Our infantry, reconnoitring north of Kreufil on the 27th, drove in the hostile advanced parties, and discovered a detachment entrenched. We had eight casualties. The enemy's are estimated at forty. During the night the Red detachment withdrew some two miles northwards to join its main body, covering its retreat by artillery and rifle fire against our outposts.

DR. FINEGAN AND A STATE OF WAR.

In the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Cavan, on Sunday, the Bishop, Dr. Finegan, referring to the present Irish situation, deplored the number of lives that were lost by shooting, and said that it was foolish for young men to imagine that a state of war existed between Ireland and England. No country was justified in going to war except there were strong hopes of success. The taking of life where there was no declaration of war was a crime against the laws of God, and brought a curse on the land. As there were, he said, a number of soldiers in the country who were evidently not under proper control, he advised the people to keep indoors at night, and he exhorted them to pray earnestly for a measure of Home Rule that would satisfy the aspirations of the people, and enable them to live in peace and happiness.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Admiral Lin Chien Chang, commanding the Chinese Fleet at Vladivostok, has resigned. He will be succeeded as Chinese representative on the Allied Commission there by the Chinese Consul-General at Vladivostok.

It is understood, says the Central News Lobby Correspondent, that an effort will be made to introduce and pass in the present session of Parliament a short bill to prevent the dumping of German cheap dyes in Great Britain.

In the Prohibition poll which is being taken in Queensland the returns still show a lead in favour of the continuance of the present system as against total Prohibition and State management. An absolute majority for continuance has now been almost gained.

The Customs Commission, in agreement with the Ministry of Finance, has (says a Reuter's Buenos Aires telegram) decided upon the immediate abolition of all taxes on the export of wool. This measure will make a large stock of wool available for export.

The results of the Italian municipal elections up to yesterday show that at Venice the Constitutional parties have gained the victory. At Caltagirone the candidates of the popular party, including the party's Secretary, Signor Sturzo, have been defeated by the Liberals. Reports from other towns show that the Constitutionalists have been victorious.

Mr. Lloyd George, in reply to Mr. Wallace in the House of Commons yesterday, said that the Government were of opinion that the status of the Secretary for Scotland should be raised to that of Secretary of State. They were also of opinion that the salaries attached to some of the other Cabinet offices were inadequate, and it was, therefore, proposed to appoint immediately a Select Committee of the House to examine into the question.

IRISH QUESTIONS IN PARLIAMENT.

DESTRUCTION OF CREAMERIES.

THE PREMIER AND INQUIRIES.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, answering a private notice question by Mr. T. P. O'Connor in the House of Commons yesterday, said that with regard to the statements made in the Manchester Guardian of October 30, he received, on Thursday last, a co-operative deputation, which made representations to him regarding the destruction of creameries at Abbeydorney and Lixnaw, and he was having inquiries made into the destruction of these creameries, and into the allegations that the destruction was carried out by servants of the Crown. I have, he continued, read the accounts given in the Manchester Guardian of attacks on the McElligotts and their sisters, and on John Lovatt and Mary Lovatt and Miss Brady. I have not received any reports on these occurrences, but I may point out to the hon. member that the attacks in question, as reported in the Manchester Guardian, were carried out by men with blackened faces and, it would appear, in civilian clothes. According to the newspaper report, these men were beaten and kicked on the suspicion that they were implicated in cutting off the hair of a girl who was friendly with the police. In the case of Mr. Burke, referred to in the last part of the question, I have already stated, in reply to a question by the hon. member on the 26th ult., that Mr. Burke was an absolutely innocent man. He was, unfortunately, shot while the police were entering Athlone after one attack and when they were in fear of another.

Lord Robert Cecil—Are these inquiries made in private or public?

Sir Hamar Greenwood—Some are made in private and some in public. My own experience in Ireland is that the most effective inquiries are made in private.

Mr. Devlin—Of whom do you make inquiries?

Sir Hamar Greenwood—From those officers and persons who are responsible to me for their conduct.

Mr. Devlin—Do I understand that these inquiries are made of the superior officers of the men who are charged with these crimes?

Sir Hamar Greenwood—The superior officers, who are responsible for the discipline of the respective units; and there have been many cases in which soldiers and policemen have been courtmartialled and policemen dismissed for conduct that is not in keeping with the discipline of these two great Forces of the Crown.

Mr. Devlin—Were they dismissed for murder?

Sir Hamar Greenwood—There is no charge, with one exception, against a policeman or soldier for murder.

Replying to other questions, Sir Hamar Greenwood explained the conduct of ordinary inquiries, and added that there were cases in which a senior officer held the inquiry, with liberty to call what evidence he wished.

Mr. Devlin was asking further questions, when

The Speaker said that these questions should be put down.

THE PREMIER AND INQUIRIES.

Mr. Devlin said that the matter was so very vital and serious that he would like to ask the Prime Minister whether, in view of what he must regard as a most unsatisfactory method of procedure in matters of the life and death of soldiers, policemen, and civilians, he was prepared to appoint an English impartial judicial tribunal to inquire into the whole matter.

Mr. Lloyd George said that the reasons against an inquiry, as indicated in the present condition of Ireland, were quite obvious. They could not get civilians who actually witnessed the perpetration of murders to come forward. They dare not. It was idle, therefore, in those circumstances to talk of a judicial inquiry. The Government must use such means as were at their disposal. The Government were not responsible for that condition of things. Until the whole sense of the community was in favour of punishing every crime of murder it was impossible to conduct such inquiries as were indicated. The real remedy was the restoration of a sense of indignation against the perpetrators of these crimes.

THE CASE OF TEMPLEMORE.

Mr. Devlin asked the Chief Secretary for Ireland whether he could make a statement with regard to the horrible events which took place at Templemore, County Tipperary, on Friday night; whether it was a fact that the town was shattered from end to end by a series of explosions, shops burned, and one hundred buildings destroyed; whether one-third of the population were compelled to fly from the town, and what action it was proposed to take to deal with this latest infamy.

Sir Hamar Greenwood—It is not a fact that the town was shattered from end to end by a series of explosions, or that one hundred buildings were destroyed, or that one-third of the population were compelled to fly from the town. The plain facts are, that the local police, assisted by the townspeople, succeeded in confining the flames to two houses—(laughter)—and that the local police were thanked by the Templemore District Council, a Sinn Fein body, for their efforts. Continuing, he said that he was making the fullest inquiry into the whole question, but the hon. member must have received the statements in his question from a source on which, for the future, he would advise him never to depend. (Laughter.)

Mr. Devlin asked whether the right hon. gentleman was aware that these statements had been made in English newspapers, and whether he would give full information as to what did take place at the adjournment of the House.

Sir Hamar Greenwood said that as soon as he received the question he "wired" for the fullest possible information.

Mr. Devlin—To whom did you wire? (Cries of "Oh.")

THE O'DWYER CASE.

Sir Hamar Greenwood informed Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy that he had not yet received the report of the inquiry into the circumstances attending the deaths of Frank O'Dwyer and Edward O'Dwyer, sons of a farmer, of Ballydavid, near Bansha. He understood that the report was not final.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy asked whether the right hon. gentleman would direct the Court of Inquiry to call upon the special correspondents of several English newspapers who had sent reports of this occurrence, as only people under police intimidation were called before these courts.

Sir Hamar Greenwood—If the hon. and gallant gentleman will give the name of any eye-witness of this offence I shall be very pleased to submit his name to the court.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy—Will the right hon. gentleman call Mr. Martin, of the Daily News, who has seen the bodies and the damage done, or any other person—Englishman or otherwise—who is not under the intimidation of his department?

Sir Hamar Greenwood, in reply, repeated his answer.

USE OF EXPLOSIVE BULLETS.

Sir William Davison asked the Prime Minister whether it was not a fact that the Chief Secretary for Ireland had stated that the reason why persons found in possession of explosive bullets could not be apprehended, and the penalty of death inflicted, was that martial law had not been proclaimed.

Mr. Lloyd George—No; I do not think so. It could not be done without legislation.

Colonel Page Croft asked whether, in view of the appalling wounds caused by exploding bullets, the right hon. gentleman would consider the whole question afresh. Surely some special course must be taken against these horrible and ghastly atrocities?

Mr. Lloyd George—I quite agree that this adds to the atrocious character of the outrages which have been perpetrated, and, if it were possible within the power of the law, to mark our resentment of such conduct, and to do more than we are doing already to repress it, the House might depend upon it that the authorities in Ireland would exercise all the powers they possess. But our information is that it cannot be done without fresh legislation.

Sir William Davison asked whether the right hon. gentleman would make inquiries whether the proclamation of martial law in a given district would not enable the authorities to apprehend persons found in possession of explosive bullets.

Mr. Lloyd George said that they could be apprehended now, and they could be very severely punished if found in the possession of such bullets; but the death penalty could not be inflicted without fresh legislation. It was one of the things that the Government were considering, and they might have to take action and ask the House to pass the necessary legislation.

A SINN FEIN FLAG.

Mr. Bennett having asked the Home Secretary whether it was with his knowledge or consent that a rebel flag was displayed in a funeral procession through London on Thursday last, and whether it was intended to allow similar emblems of rebellion to be paraded in the streets of the metropolis in future,

Mr. Shortt writes, in reply, that the answer to the first part of the question was in the negative. The display of a flag was not in itself an offence, but action might have to be taken if it were used as an incitement or encouragement to riot and sedition, or any other breach of the law.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BELFAST.

Sir Montague Barlow writes, in reply to Mr. Acland, that he cannot state how many persons are unemployed as the result of industrial troubles in Belfast. The total number of persons on the live register of the Employment Exchange at Belfast on 15th October was 6,226, of whom 2,831 were ex-Service men.

THE DUBLIN CORPORATION PICTURES.

Asked by Sir Maurice Dockrell if he was aware that a notice of motion had been given by a member of the Dublin Corporation to sell the "pictures and other paraphernalia of British Kings," at present in the Mansion House or City Hall, Dublin, and to place the money to the credit of the different employing Committees, in order to retain employés to do the work of the Council; and whether, if it was decided to do so, he would acquire the collection on behalf of the Irish National Gallery,

Sir Hamar Greenwood said that his attention had been drawn to a newspaper report of the proposal, but he was not prepared, without further consideration, to take such action as was suggested.

Sir Maurice Dockrell—Will the right hon. gentleman hold a watching brief?

Sir Hamar Greenwood nodded assent.

THE IRISH NATIONAL ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Sir Robert Horne writes, in reply to Mr. Moles, that the Irish National Assurance Co., Ltd., has made a deposit of £20,000 in respect of life assurance business under the Assurance Companies Act, 1909. As the business of that company was only commenced late in the year 1919, the first returns, made up to 31st December, 1920, need not be lodged until June, 1921. No company called the New Ireland Assurance Company, Ltd., had been registered, but the New Ireland Assurance Collecting Society was registered under the Friendly Societies Acts, and was, therefore, not required to make a deposit of £20,000. He was informed by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies that the returns for 1919 had been made by the Society, and were now being examined.

IRISH RAILWAYS' MILEAGE.

Sir Eric Geddes writes, in reply to Mr. Kenyon, that, as compared with three weeks ago, the reduction in mileage run on the principal railways in the South and West of Ireland is approximately 30 per cent. This reduction is due to the miners' strike, and to the normal return to winter services. Reductions due to refusal to carry Government stores had not been increased during the last three weeks.

TRADERS' TICKETS REDUCED.

Captain Dixon having asked the Minister of Transport if he was aware that in Ireland the cost of traders' tickets had been advanced by 800 per cent.; and if, as such a rise amounted to a strangulation of trade, he would reduce the advance to 120 per cent.,

Sir Eric Geddes writes that it had been brought to his notice that the recent revision of rates for traders' season tickets, adopted on the recommendation of the Rates Advisory Committee, had, in some instances in Ireland, resulted in a very marked increase, and directions had now been issued, with retrospective effect, limiting the amount of increase to 200 per cent.

CHARGES AGAINST POLICE.

BISHOP O'DOHERTY'S LETTER TO THE CHIEF SECRETARY.

Dr. O'Doherty, Roman Catholic Bishop of Clonfert, has addressed the following letter to Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland:—

"RIGHT HON. SIR,—If Press reports can now be trusted in any particular, you recently stated in the British House of Commons that you are ready to dismiss 'everybody who departs a hair's breadth from the ordinary discipline of the R.I.C.' You also asserted that 'all the munitions of the police and soldiers in Ireland are for the suppression of outrage, and the protection of the lives and properties of persons not in arms against the Government.'

"In view of these splendid declarations, may I draw your attention to the following facts? On Wednesday, 27th October, a lorry, crowded with members of the R.I.C., passed through Loughrea. It came, apparently, from Galway. Many of its occupants were recognised, so that there is no room for the allegation that they were 'rebels' masquerading in stolen uniforms.

"The town of Loughrea and the surrounding district have hitherto been perfectly peaceful, and there was no hostile demonstration whatever. Yet, before leaving the town the occupants of the lorry fired several shots—I heard them myself—and the shooting was continued as they 'proceeded' in the direction of Portumna. What caused them to 'see red' I am at a loss to imagine, unless they expected an attack from geese and sheep and cattle.

"I must ask: Was this a departure, even by a hair's breadth, from the ordinary discipline of the R.I.C.? Were the munitions thus expended employed 'for the suppression of outrage, and the protection of the lives and properties of persons not in arms against the Government'? There can be no question of 'self-defence' in this case; for there can be no 'defence' where there is no attack, actual or contemplated or suspected.

"The shooting party returned in the evening. Having regaled themselves in a public-house, they noticed that the business premises of the town were partly shuttered as a mark of respect for the dead Lord Mayor of Cork. Reverence for the dead, no matter who the person may be, but especially for the dead who have died in a noble cause, has always been a notable characteristic of the Irish people. Infuriated now, not by the sight of 'bleeding, murdered comrades,' but by this testimony of respect for the dead patriot and his sorrowing relatives, your 'braves' attacked several houses in the town.

"The proclamation of An Dail Eireann, setting aside Friday as a day of national mourning, had not yet been issued, yet windows were smashed, and one man's life was threatened by the occupants of the lorry.

"A miscreant belonging to that body deliberately fired several shots down the street, as a result of which three little children were wounded, two of them sons of members of the local Constabulary, and the third the child of a man who fought in the Great War 'for justice and right, and the freedom of small nations.'

"Far worse might have happened were it not that the District Inspector of Loughrea, who deserves every credit for his conscientiousness and bravery, ordered out his men to protect a peaceable town. Thus opposed by force, your 'heroes' withdrew in the direction of Galway.

"It is in your power, as you have stated it is your will, to bring these ruffians to justice. Will you do so? If there is any 'order' or 'discipline,' which one may doubt, among the armed forces at your command, it should be an easy matter to identify and deal with the occupants of that lorry. I am quite aware that your recent acts and utterances condone, and, consequently, encourage this kind of terrorism and provocation. I am also aware that you will accept information only, or, for the most part, from those who, themselves, have been guilty of intimidation, looting, arson, and murder. The value of that information let the world judge. Knowing, therefore, that you will probably profess to regard what I have stated as coming from a 'tainted' source, since it does not come from the actual culprits, I am sending a copy of this letter to the Press.

"Any impartial inquirer can ascertain the truth of what I have written.

"✠THOMAS O'DOHERTY,
Bishop of Clonfert."

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

PROFESSOR MACALISTER'S LECTURES.—On behalf of the funds of the Magdalen Asylum, Dublin, Professor Macalister will lecture to-day on "The Beginning of Human Life in Europe." Lady Ardilaun will take the chair at five o'clock in the Molesworth Hall. There will be limelight illustrations, and tea will be provided at 4.30 p.m.

DUBLIN AND CROSS-CHANNEL SAILINGS.—Yesterday's business with outward-bound cross Channel steamers from the port of Dublin was strictly limited as regards passenger and live-stock business. One steamer of the British and Irish Company was alone concerned with traffic of this nature to the ports of Liverpool and Birkenhead.

OVERSEAS TRAFFIC WITH DUBLIN.—Two further overseas vessels arrived in Dublin yesterday—the ss. Lord Antrim, of the Ulster Steamship Company's fleet, arriving from Montreal and Quebec, whilst Spanish trade was represented by the incoming of the ss. Santa Theresa from Huelva, laden with a freight of ore. The Moore and MacCormack New York steamer, Milwaukee Bridge, is expected to reach Dublin within the next couple of days.

MODERN ART GALLERY.—A meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Modern Art Gallery, Dublin, was held in the Gallery, 17 Harcourt street, on the 22nd ult., Mr. J. Coghlan Briscoe in the chair. The following pictures were accepted on loan, and are now hung in the Gallery:—Portrait of Miss Mary Palliser, by Sir F. Burton, lent by Colonel Sir Gerald Lenox Conyngham; Drawing of an Italian Woman's Head, by Sir Frederick Burton, lent by Miss C. M. Lenox Conyngham; and the following eight pictures, the property of Mr. W. P. Geoghegan:—"A Window in a London Street," by Sir William Orpen, R.A.; "The Workwoman," by Sir William Orpen, R.A.; "Sea Piece, with Fishing Boat," by Nathaniel Hone, R.H.A.; "The Silver Strand," by Nathaniel Hone, R.H.A.; "Landscape," by Walter Osborne, R.H.A.; "The Silver Strand," by Walter Osborne, R.H.A.; "Afternoon Tea on the Seine," by Luise Breslau; "Wallflowers," by Professor Fred. Brown. Mr. Geoghegan, who attended, was thanked by the committee for his generous loan.

The Eiffel Tower issued at 11.30 yesterday morning the first meteorological wireless message since August 2, 1914. The message contained observations from fourteen stations.

PARLIAMENT.

EMPIRE EXHIBITION BILL.

JUVENILE COURTS IN LONDON.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

The Shops (Early Closing) No. 2 Bill, as amended in Standing Committee, was considered on report, and read a third time.

LEAD PROCESSES BILL.

Mr. Shortt moved the second reading of the Women and Young Persons (Employment in Lead Processes) Bill, which, he said, was a short measure, intended to carry out obligations under which England rested to the International labour organisation of the League of Nations. The organisation made certain recommendations in regard to employment in lead processes, which had to be submitted to Parliament for ratification, and embodied in the law of the country. The recommendations set up a minimum standard of conditions which every country ought at least to attain. That did not prevent any country from improving on those conditions, and it would make very little difference to this country, because we were in advance of the minimum standard.

Major Hills and Mr. Wignall welcomed the bill.

Sir Frederick Banbury said that if the new world trade and commerce was going to be directed by a hole-and-corner committee, on which England had a minority representation, he preferred the old world. There was not even a woman on the committee.

Sir J. D. Rees also expressed his apprehensions.

Sir Samuel Horne expressed amazement at the speeches of the two hon. baronets, seeing that the bill was part of the Peace Treaty for which they had voted.

Captain Elliott said that the bill was an honest attempt to improve the health of the people. Lead poisoning was a very serious matter for women.

The bill was read a second time.

BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

Mr. Kellaway moved the second reading of the British Empire Exhibition (Guarantee) Bill. He said that it was proposed to hold in London, in 1923, an exhibition representative of the industry and resources of the British Empire. The object was to foster inter-imperial interests, both from a commercial and political standpoint, and to demonstrate the natural resources of the Empire, and the inventive and manufacturing genius of its people. The exhibition would be privately organised, but was receiving official recognition and support. The Government proposed to guarantee a sum of £100,000, subject to private guarantees amounting to half a million pounds being forthcoming. The Government would be in a position to secure that the exhibition was conducted with a proper regard to economy, and on lines which would secure a success worthy of the great object in view.

Sir Frederick Banbury opposed the bill on account of the expenditure it involved.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy asked whether our Allies and the mandated territories were to be included.

Sir J. D. Rees inquired about the position of Nyassaland under the scheme.

Mr. Clynes supported the bill, which, he said, promised to benefit internal Empire trade, and thereby to create employment.

Mr. Hogge said that the best exhibition we could have was a new Government that would cease to interfere with trade.

Mr. Myers, Sir A. Holbrook, Dr. Murray, Mr. Kiley, and Major Hayward having spoken,

The second reading was carried by 205 votes to 30.

JUVENILE COURTS BILL.

Mr. Shortt moved the second reading of the Juvenile Courts (Metropolis) Bill, the object of which, he said, was to establish separate courts in London to deal with child offenders. The bill had passed through the House of Lords. It enabled women justices to sit with the presiding magistrate, in the same way as they sat in every other place outside London. Moreover, instead of being taken to a Police Court, child offenders would be taken to a separate building where the officials were not in uniform. He commended the bill to the House, because it proposed to improve the existing admirable system of administering the law in regard to child offenders.

Mr. Rawlinson said that he saw no necessity for the bill, and that he had heard no single complaint against the present system of taking these cases before one magistrate. He moved the rejection of the bill.

Mr. Hohler seconded the rejection, and expressed the belief that the bill had been promoted by the Government to please some influential ladies who wanted to sit as justices.

Major Hayward welcomed the bill as a further step in the enlightened administration of the law.

Sir J. D. Rees expressed doubts as to the desirability of the measure.

Lady Astor, in supporting the bill, said that no one had attacked the principle of the bill, and those members who attacked the bill had only displayed their old prejudices against reforms and women. She had nothing to do with the promotion of the bill, but every women's association wanted it. No doubt, the magistrates had done as well as they could without women to assist them. (Laughter.) It was depressing to hear the criticism they had heard from members who always opposed reforms connected with education, women, and drink. The nation would not grudge any expense necessary to save high-spirited children and put them on the right road.

The bill was read a second time.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC BILL.

Mr. Fisher informed Mr. Hogge that the Government hoped to be able to produce the bill dealing with the liquor traffic during the present session. The bill, he said, was already drafted. It had been considered by a Cabinet Committee and approved.

THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND.

Viscount Curzon asked the Prime Minister whether he could give an assurance that the official account of the Battle of Jutland would be included in the Naval History of the War as it stood, without any alterations, amendments, or omissions other than the addition of any facts which might transpire from official or unofficial German sources.

Mr. Lloyd George said that it might be assumed that Sir Julian Corbett would wish to make the fullest use of materials compiled by the Admiralty in regard to the Battle of Jutland, but he (Sir Julian) had not yet had an opportunity of examining them thoroughly, and he (the Prime Minister) was averse from giving an answer which would interfere with the independence of the historian. The cost of publishing the history would not fall upon any vote, but the preparation of it would be a charge upon the Treasury vote to the Committee of Imperial Defence, to whom Sir Julian was responsible as author.

Mr. George Lambert asked why the Admiralty had gone back on its position of publishing an official report of the battle, which the British public had a right to demand.

Mr. Lloyd George said that he was sure that it was desirable there should be a separate account of this battle. Sir Julian Corbett was giving an official account of the war from the Admiralty's point of view, and he would be writing an account of the Battle of Jutland. As far as the Government were concerned, they had no objection, if the House desired it, to publish the reports and despatches in their possession upon the subject, and to leave it to the public to judge for itself. The Government had certainly no official view.

Mr. J. H. Thomas asked if it would not be better to publish the documents, and leave individuals to judge for themselves.

Mr. Lloyd George said that he would consider that suggestion.

THE ARMISTICE CELEBRATIONS.

Replying to Major Hamilton, the Prime Minister said that the view of the Government was that Parliament, as the representative of the nation, should be officially present at the ceremonies at Westminster Abbey and at the Cenotaph on Armistice Day. If there was a general desire on the part of the members of both Houses to surrender, for the benefit of bereaved wives and mothers, such accommodation as in the ordinary course would have been placed at their disposal, the Government would be glad to make arrangements. (Hear, hear.) He took it that the House agreed. (Cheers.)

Replying to Sir Burton Chadwick, Mr. Lloyd George said that the Cabinet Committee charged with supervising the arrangements on November 11 had recommended that there should be a two-minutes' silence observed throughout the United Kingdom, and, if possible, throughout the Dominions and in India, at 11 a.m. on Armistice Day, and, as on the last occasion, that it should be a complete suspension of normal business, work, and locomotion during two minutes, as far as it was possible.

BELFAST CIVILIAN COURT-MARTIALLED.

ACCUSED AND THE SHOOTING OF POLICEMEN.

Following discoveries during a raid of 12 Kildare street, Belfast, on the 2nd September, a courtmartial was yesterday held in the Victoria Barracks, Belfast, when Michael O'Reilly, of 12 Kildare street, was charged with having in his possession one rifle, one revolver, one bayonet, and 216 rounds of rifle ammunition. The accused refused to recognise the Court.

Evidence having been given,

The prisoner said that he claimed the right as an Irishman to carry arms. The German bayonet was a souvenir from his brother-in-law, who was killed in France, and to whom the khaki tunic also belonged. He asked that these things should be returned. God had made Ireland to be free, he continued, and he as an individual claimed that freedom, and would fight for it. He would shoot a policeman if ordered to do so by the Irish Republic.

The decision of the Court will be announced.

BISHOPRIC OF OSSORY.

CONSECRATION OF REV. CANON DAY.

The solemn ceremony of the consecration of the Rev. Canon J. G. F. Day, M.A., Incumbent of St. Ann's Parish Church, Dawson street, Dublin, as Bishop of the Diocese of Ossory, Ferns, and Leighlin, in succession to the newly-appointed Archbishop of Dublin (Dr. Gregg), took place in Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday. The Service was very impressive, and was followed with reverent attention by a large congregation. There was also a representative attendance of clergy from the Diocese of Dublin, Ossory, Ferns, and Leighlin. The Service began at 11.30 o'clock, but before that hour a procession of choir and clergy was formed, and marched to their allotted places in the following order:—The choir, clergy from the dioceses, the Dean of Christ Church and Chapter, the Bishop-elect, the assistant Bishops (Dr. Plunkett, Dr. Day, and Dr. Sterling Berry), the Archbishop's Registrar (Mr. W. A. Robinson), the Archbishop of Dublin, and his chaplains.

The Chapter of Christ Church was represented by the Dean (Very Rev. H. Vere White), Rev. H. Hogan (Precentor), Rev. Canon H. B. Kennedy (Chancellor), Rev. R. B. Stoney (Treasurer), Ven. T. S. R. Lindsay (Archdeacon of Dublin), Canons J. C. Dowse, F. C. Hayes, G. D. Scott, R. N. Somerville, J. A. Jennings, W. M. Weir, — Thompson; Revs. W. R. Browne, W. W. Dungan, H. Taylor, J. E. L. Oulton, H. G. Forde, and J. P. Shortt (Clerical Vicars). The Chapter of St. Patrick's Cathedral was represented by the Dean (Very Rev. Dr. Ovenden), Rev. Precentor Lawlor, Rev. Canon N. J. D. White, Rev. Canon Kingsmill Moore, Rev. Canon Wilson, Rev. J. Butler (Assistant Dean's Vicar), Rev. E. H. Campbell (Succentor). The clergy from the different dioceses included: Dublin—Revs. E. M. Griffin, R. Saunderson Griffin, W. H. Coulter, William Bell, E. C. Hodges, J. Haythornthwaite, John Oliver, F. B. Dobbs, C. B. Moss, J. F. Shearman, John Conner, E. H. Lewis Crosby, A. C. Hughes, John Tobias, J. Riversdale Colthurst, W. J. Dowman, Harvey Stewart, H. C. S. Mceredy, C. R. Kitchin, J. J. Lougheed, T. W. Greer, S. Hutchinson, A. W. Ardagh, R. Northings, T. W. E. Drury, G. A. Chamberlain, W. M. Gibbon, and J. E. Hazley (St. Mary's, Clonmel). Leighlin—The Archdeacon, Revs. J. H. Madden, W. J. Willis, T. E. Young, J. O'Callaghan, A. G. Stuart, T. H. Madden. Ferns—Revs. Canon Rennison, W. H. T. Gahan, Thomas B. Gibson, George R. Birmingham. Ossory—The Dean, Revs. Canon A. V. Hogg, D. G. Norris.

Morning prayer having been sung at 10.15 o'clock, the Archbishop of Dublin began the Service of the Holy Communion, and the Epistle was then read from the south side by the Bishop of Meath, the Bishop of Killaloe afterwards reading the Gospel from the north side. Following the chanting of the Nicene Creed, the Bishop of Clogher was conducted to the pulpit, the Archbishop and the other two assistant Bishops also being conducted to seats in front of the pulpit. Dr. Day based his sermon on the text: "The elders which are among you I exhort, who am also an elder" (1 Peter v., 1), and gave an able exposition of the induction of ministers of the Church from Apostolic days. The sermon ended, the Bishops resumed their former places, the Archbishop taking his seat in the chair in front of the holy table. The Bishop-elect was then conducted by the Bishops of Meath and Killaloe, and presented to the Archbishop as "this godly and well-learned man to be ordained and consecrated Bishop," Canon Day remaining outside the sacrarium, at the foot of the steps thereto. In compliance with the demand of the Archbishop, the Registrar read the certificate of the Bench of Bishops of the election and fitness of the person to be consecrated, and the Bishop-elect, having made the usual declaration of obedience to the Archbishop, knelt on the step in front of the Archbishop's chair, and remained in that position during the Litany, which was sung by the Succentor.

Following the prayer, "Almighty God, Giver of all good things," the Archbishop put the customary questions of examination, and, these having been duly answered and prayer said, the Bishop-elect, attended by his chaplain, retired to the Chapter House, where he donned the rest of the episcopal habit. During his absence, an anthem was pleasingly rendered by the choir, and the Dean took his accustomed place inside the sacrarium. Returning, the Bishop-elect knelt in front of the chair of the Archbishop. While the latter remained standing, all others kneeling in their places, the hymn, "Veni Creator," was sung, after which the Bishop-elect entered the sacrarium, and knelt before the Archbishop. His Grace and the other Bishops then laid their hands upon the head of the new Bishop, who was duly consecrated with all the solemnity attaching to the ritual of the Church, the members of the congregation meanwhile meekly kneeling. The newly-consecrated Bishop, after the usual prayers, proceeded to his seat in the sacrarium, and, following the collection, the remainder of the Communion Service was gone through. The Archbishop and the Dean, with the other Bishops, administered the Communion to the people. After the Service, the musical portion of which was very pleasingly and devoutly rendered, Dr. C. H. Kitson presiding capably at the organ, the procession of choir and clergy returned in the same order as that of entry, with the exception that the newly-consecrated Bishop took his place before the other prelates.

THE MARY STREET SHOOTING.

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER.

At a Court of Military Inquiry held in lieu of an inquest on the body of William Robinson, civilian, the Court, having considered the evidence given on oath by witnesses, returned a verdict that the deceased died on 16-10-'20 from shock and hemorrhage, resulting from bullet wounds inflicted on 15-10-'20 by two persons unknown who wore civilian clothes. The Court are of opinion that these two persons committed wilful murder.

Medical evidence having been given, a witness having been duly sworn, stated—"At Dublin, on Friday night, 15th October, 1920, I was standing at the corner of Mary street and Capel street with deceased, other civilians, and a tall soldier of the R.A.S.C., whose name I do not know. This was about 11.40 p.m. Two men walked across the road and spoke to me. They asked me what I was doing out there at that hour of the night. I replied, asking what was it to do with them, and added that it was not 12 o'clock. They then asked me if I was a Sinn Feiner. I asked them why they asked that question. They replied they were Republican Police. After a little further discussion they asked me to give them proof that I was a Sinn Feiner. They said they wanted proof in writing. At this point the deceased, William Robinson, also asked them what proof was wanted. The two strangers then turned to the deceased and said they wanted proof in writing. The deceased put his hand into his breast pocket pretending as if he were about to produce papers. He was laughing and treating the matter as a joke. He then said that if the two strangers would come aside with him he would show them proof in writing. He then crossed the road with them, and the next thing I heard were shots. I heard probably about four shots. The shots were fired from the group consisting of the deceased and the two strangers. The two strangers then ran away up Little Mary street, and Robinson, the deceased, jumped back, shouting 'I'm wounded.' I then saw the deceased collapse on to the path after staggering a short distance. Regarding the appearance of the two strangers. The shorter was about five feet eight in height, the other about an inch taller, and more heavily built. The smaller of the two had a blue shirt and soft white collar, the taller one had a black soft hat, and a brown scarf. I did not particularly notice anything else. Both were clean shaven, and the shorter man had fresh complexion. I helped to carry deceased to the Jervis street Hospital."

Corroborative evidence having been given by other witnesses, the Court gave their finding as stated above.

ROBBERY BY ARMED MEN IN DUBLIN.

About 9 o'clock last night armed and masked men entered the shop 23 Aungier street, Dublin, and "held up" Mrs. Dwyer, who was in charge. They took away with them cigarettes and tobacco to the value of about 30s.

JUDGMENT AGAINST BELFAST STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

In the Admiralty Division yesterday, Mr. Justice Hill disposed of the claim by the owner of the Liverpool steamer, Colwith Force, against the owners of the Belfast steamship, Achill, for damages in consequences of a collision between the two vessels in the River Mersey on the night of February 27th last. The defendants, who denied negligence, counter-claimed for damages.

His Lordship found that the Achill, bound down, got on to her wrong side of the river; that, instead of passing the incoming Colwith Force port side to port side, she starboarded her helm, and attempted to pass that vessel starboard side to starboard side, and then, at the last, she changed a position of safety into one of danger, and produced the collision by a further change of helm. He pronounced the Achill alone to blame, and gave judgment for the plaintiffs, with costs, the damage to be assessed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

ARMISTICE DAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Are we going to celebrate Armistice Day in Dublin? I do think that we should not forget our comrades who have made the supreme sacrifice. Would not the Lord Lieutenant sanction the wearing of their uniform by both officers and men (retired) on Armistice Day as a mark of respect for the gallant and glorious dead?—Yours, etc.,

EXPELLED WORKERS IN BELFAST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I believe that there is a very inadequate knowledge among Southern Protestants of the position in Belfast. Some 10,000 workers have been expelled, and are still excluded from their employment. Some 2,000 of these are already destitute and dependent on charity for their support, while some 2,000 are on the verge of destitution. These men and their dependents—in all some 30,000 souls—have been deprived of their livelihood by a persecution which, whatever the motive of its prime instigators, is applied in the name of Protestantism. Such an object-lesson is hardly the way to commend to our Catholic fellow-countrymen the claims of Protestantism to stand for the freedom of the individual conscience. The more progressive the abstract idea of Protestantism (and I for one believe it to be an essential element of human progress), the more disastrous must be the results of its concrete perversion as we witness it in Belfast.

It would, indeed, be a calamity if the tolerance and good-will extended to Protestants in the Catholic South were disturbed by the absence of reciprocity in the North. It must not be forgotten that complete power over the lives of Catholics is being put into the hands of a Protestant force of special constables in Ulster. There is grave fear of the power's being abused in execution, in addition to the provocation of its very existence. In such circumstances religious hatred could hardly be confined to Ulster unless Southern Catholics had good cause to differentiate between Protestant ethics North and South of the Boyne. A series of religious reprisals is too terrible to contemplate. On the other hand, are Southern Catholics expected to watch unmoved the making of parts of Ulster uninhabitable for their co-religionists?

The course dictated by justice and humanity is surely also the wisest for Southern Protestants to pursue—namely, to come generously to the assistance of the expelled workers until such time as savage passions abate. Some moral courage is needed to stem their destructive extension.—Yours, etc.,

J. R. WHITE.

CLERICAL INCOMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Re the urgent appeal to Irish Churchmen to subscribe annually towards a fund for supplying the needs of the clergy, "as far as these can be ascertained," permit me to say that the enquiry into the said needs should be a searching one. While I have full sympathy with the claims of the clergy, as a whole, and deep admiration of the splendid and silent fight they have made, the fact remains that in many cases assistance is unnecessary. I allude to cases such as:—(1) A childless couple; (2) able to afford a motor car, while living close to his Church; (3) able to hunt, or spend much on golf or other games or sport; (4) possessing private means. There are cases in which the parson can send his children to more expensive schools, or his family be more expensively dressed, than the parishioners could dream of. It is hard for parishioners, who are already giving to the utmost of their capacity, and see one or more of those conditions obtaining at the rectory, to be called on for more.

The pecuniary straits of the smaller country gentry are every whit as desperate as those of the parson, who is, at any rate, sure of a free roof and, perhaps, garden, and a little land, and much "keeping up appearances" is not expected of him. I have heard the idea promulgated that if any private means is the wife's, it should not count. In all relief schemes, however, the joint income is considered.—Yours, etc.,

BELFAST CORPORATION FINANCE.

BIG RATE INCREASE NEXT YEAR.

At the monthly meeting of Belfast Corporation yesterday, the Lord Mayor (Councillor W. F. Coates, J.P.), Chairman of the Finance Committee, drew the attention of the Council to the present financial position of the Corporation, and impressed upon the members the necessity of economy. Returns had been prepared, showing the increases in salaries and wages between 1st April and 1st September, 1920 (inclusive). The increase on salaries and wages on Rating Funds was £84,439 (£14,629 on salaries, and £69,810 on wages). On Trading Funds the total increase was £80,282 (£9,630 on salaries, and £70,646 on wages), or a total increase of £164,721. Taking the Rating Fund increase of £84,439, the Council must realise the enormous sum this meant, and nothing had been provided for it in this year's estimates, although it is equivalent to roughly an increase of 1s. 8d. in the £ on the rates, and the amount that would be required to replace the debit balance which will be shown at the 31st March next is £120,000. To that would have to be added in the next year's estimates the amount required to pay the increase for the coming year, or another 1s. 8d. in the £, and this foreshadowed an alarming increase in the rates next year.

DEFICIT ON TRAMWAY.

The position of most of the trading undertakings should be a matter of deep concern to the Council. The tramway undertaking at present shows a deficiency of £2,000 per week. Increased fares seemed absolutely inevitable. They would learn with astonishment that the total amount of salaries and wages now paid by the Corporation amounted to over £1,000,000. He had not made in these figures any provision for the compensation claims in connection with recent rioting and burning. The Corporation, apart from housing, were definitely committed to schemes involving an expenditure of over £1,000,000.

The minutes were adopted.

INFLUENCE OF STEREOSCOPIC VISION.

LECTURE BY PROFESSOR ELLIOTT SMITH.

At the Royal College of Surgeons yesterday evening, before a large and distinguished attendance, Professor Elliott Smith delivered a lecture on "The Influence of Stereoscopic Vision on the Evolution of Man." The Vice-President presided, and apologised for the absence of Sir Edward Taylor, who was indisposed through a cold.

Professor Elliott Smith began by expressing his pleasure at having the opportunity of revisiting Dublin, which, he said, had many pleasant associations for him, and was glad of having been given the privilege of delivering the first of this series of lectures at the Royal College of Surgeons. The lecturer said that the subject of his lecture had given rise to a good deal of questioning, and there seemed to be some difficulty in associating the two parts of the title of his subject. The lecture was illustrated with lantern slides. By means of photographs of the brains of mammals Professor Smith demonstrated how the olfactory sense was the dominant cerebral influence in guiding early pre-anthropoid mammals to their prey, sight being only brought into operation at short distances. Plates were thrown on the screen showing how the olfactory portion of the brain was very much larger than the portion operating the visual nerves. Necessity required that the more effective and powerful sense of vision should be brought into predominance, and gradual cerebral changes took place; visual power developed, but vision was only monocular, each eye acting independently of the other. The position and size of the nose prohibited binocular vision, but as the sense of vision grew skull formation varied, the eyes bulged forward, and the nose became less prominent and smaller, and even before the appearance of the anthropoid ape and the ancestors of man, certain mammals had almost acquired stereoscopic vision, and the retina of the eye was more highly sensitive to the double image which could now be taken of an object. The ape attained to stereoscopic vision, and Professor Smith identified by means of photographs the similarity of formation in the visual section of the brains of the ape and of man, and submitted that the readiness of the ape to use its hands instead of the paws indicated the operation of the improved sense of sight. He said that it was the development of a powerful stereoscopic vision which had freed the hands of man. From the development of this sense high skill was attained by man in the use of his hands; one group of muscles was not alone affected by it, but all the muscles of the body. Prepared for by the gradual modification of the position of the eyes and the shape of the nose as the visual section of the brain grew in size and activity, the influence of stereoscopic vision had been the dominant factor in the evolution of man. Professor Smith, in concluding, said that some humorist had suggested that if Cleopatra's nose had been a millimetre shorter the history of the world would have followed a different course during the past two thousand years. He left it to the imagination of his audience what, "if any," as is said in military circles, would have been the history of man if the shape of the nose of the pre-anthropoid mammal had not changed so as to permit of the development of stereoscopic vision in human beings.

Dr. James Craig, President of the Royal College of Physicians, proposed a vote of thanks to Professor Smith, which was seconded by Professor E. J. Evatt, D.S.O., and heartily adopted.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

STOCKS CLOSED STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, MONDAY.

To-morrow being Election Day, all the American markets will be closed.

Stocks opened irregular, and declined under pressure against various Specialities, due to the unfavourable trade conditions; then rallied on buying of Standard Railroads and covering of over-extended short accounts, notably in Royal Dutch Petroleum. The improvement in Liberty Bonds and the outlook for satisfactory election results caused a good demand for both accounts. Southern Pacific advanced ½ point. The market closed strong.

The Welsh poison trial opens to-day before Mr. Justice Shearman, at Carmarthen Assizes. Harold Greenwood, solicitor, of Kidwelly, and Llanelly, is being charged with poisoning his first wife, Mabel, on June 16th, 1919, by administering arsenic. The dead woman was a sister of Sir T. Vansittart Bowater, former Lord Mayor of London. Greenwood, who had four children, married his present wife fifteen weeks after the death of the first.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

RISES IN GOLD AND SILVER.

Bank Rate (changed April 15th) .... 7 p.c.

The London disbursements did not find their way to the market to any extent, and for the greater part of the day floating supplies were quite usable. Early borrowers over the night were able to obtain what they wanted without paying more than 5 p.c., though occasionally a slightly higher rate was asked. Towards the close it was fairly easy to get fresh money at 4½ p.c., but there was only a very little surplus supply below that figure. There was not much done in the discount market, but rates were firm. The full two months' bill is now a January maturity, and brokers mostly quoted 6⅝ p.c. as the minimum. Late December could be bought at 5⅞ p.c., but they were not wanted to any extent.

As usual on November 1, the Stock Exchange remained closed, and there were no changes in prices of public securities to record.

The price of gold was up 1s. 1d. to 119s. 2d. per oz. fine. A moderate amount was in the market, and the bulk of it was taken for India and America. Bar silver further advanced ⅜d. to 52⅜d. per oz. for spot and ½d. to 52⅜d. per oz. for forward delivery. The rise was chiefly due to sellers holding off.

With regard to foreign exchanges, the Catholic countries' exchanges were closed yesterday in observance of All Saints' Day, and consequently business in London was not very heavy. New York was less favourable to us, and on balance nearly 2 cents lower. Paris and Brussels cheques showed depreciation for francs, although not to a material extent.

Paris, 54.35-54.40; Brussels, 51.40-51.50; Christiania, 23.35-23.40; Stockholm, 17.72-17.76; Copenhagen, 24.20-25.24; Switzerland, 21.95-22.00; Amsterdam, 11.29-11.31; Italy, 93.50-94.00; Madrid, sight, 24.85-24.90; Berlin, 267-270; Rio, 12⅜d.; Calcutta, 1s. 7½d.; New York, 3.43-3.44¼; Buenos Ayres, 55d.-56d.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. S. F. Prest has resigned his position as Chairman of Eley Brothers, Limited, ammunition manufacturers, but will retain his seat on the board.

It is announced that Mr. Albert Peech, of Firbeck Hall, Rotherham, has been appointed Chairman of the United Steel Companies, Ltd., in place of the late Mr. Henry Steel, and that Mr. Herbert Duedalla, of 1 Broad Street place, London, E.C. 2, has accepted the vacant seat on the board of that company.

It is stated by the secretary of Spillers Milling Associated Industries that, as a result of negotiations just completed, Sir John M. Frost, Mr. T. Gibbons Frost, and the other partners in Messrs. F. A. Frost and Sons, flour millers, of Chester and Ellesmere Port, have entered into an agreement whereby that firm has been converted into a private limited company, and the whole of the share capital will be exchanged for a mutually agreed number of shares of the three classes (Preference, Ordinary, and Deferred Ordinary) in Spillers Milling and Associated Industries, Ltd. In accordance with the agreement, Sir John Meadows Frost has joined the board.

Selfridge and Co.'s issue of £1,000,000 10 per cent. Cum. Pref. Ord. Shares of £1 each at par—Owing to the large number of applications already received, the list will be closed at 12 o'clock noon to-day (Tuesday), the 2nd inst.

The monthly bulletin of the National City of New York points out that the general trade and industrial developments of the month of October have strengthened the general conviction that the boom period in prices is over, and the country is settling down to conditions more normal than those which prevailed in the last half of 1919 and the early months of 1920. "The day of competition among dealers for goods at any price and among employers for labourers at any wage has passed. There is good buying power in the country yet, but the keen edge is off. The feeling is that from now on there will be enough of everything to go round, and that most things will be cheaper rather than dearer. War conditions do not last always." The bulletin continues—"Imports in the first seven months of this year were 3,581,000,000 dollars, against 1,955,000,000 dollars in the same months of last year. The crops are large, and the cost of living is lower than last year. The argument for wage increases based on the cost of living works both ways, and the argument of diminished demand for goods and diminished employment is one of the most convincing in the world. It cannot be answered or put aside. It looks everybody in the face until something is done about it."

Cable advices from New York announce that Messrs. Speyer and Co. have purchased 6,000,000 dollars City of Berne 25-Year 8 per cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds. It is expected that the bonds will shortly be offered in America for public subscription. The City of Berne will pay Speyer and Co., the fiscal agents of the loan, an annual sinking fund and sums sufficient to redeem each year for the first five years 120,000 dollars of bonds, for the next ten years 250,000 dollars of bonds, and for the remaining ten years 300,000 dollars of bonds. For the first five years the bonds are to be purchased in the market up to 107 and interest, and to the extent that bonds cannot be so purchased, such balance of bonds is to be drawn by lot at 107 and interest two months prior to November 1, 1925, for payment on that date; thereafter bonds are to be drawn by lot annually at 107 and interest. The bonds are redeemable after five years at the option of the City of Berne in whole or in part at 107 and interest.

The United States Rubber Co. has reduced prices 12½ per cent. on so-called Ford sizes, and 10 per cent. on larger sizes of fabric tyres, with a slightly smaller cut on cord tyres. Solid tubes are reduced by 15 per cent., and solid truck tyres 10 per cent.

Some interesting statements concerning a contemplated English paper combination have been made to a representative of the Christiania "Norges Handels og Sjofartstidende" by Mr. W. Harrison, manager of the Hartlepools Paper Mills Company, who, in company with Sir Robert Carlyle (Chairman) and Messrs. C. Baker and H. Smith (directors), are making a tour of Scandinavia in order to study the conditions there in relation to raw materials for paper making. Mr. Harrison stated that his directors had already got in communication with various Norwegian makers of wood pulp, and it was intended to purchase a mill there. The manager is reported to have further stated that a great combination of English paper works is under consideration, with a probable share capital of from £4,000,000 to £5,000,000. The idea of the scheme was to place England in a position to control the great paper market. It was, therefore, necessary to establish co-operation with the Norwegian mills, and mills must also be purchased. It was intended to increase the import of cellulose from Norway, but this was difficult when a price of £60 per ton had to be paid.

A development of the agitation against the proposed deal by which Lord Leverhulme acquires control of the African and Eastern Trade Corporation took place yesterday, when Mr. L. Roy Heywood, representing the committee of dissenting shareholders, accompanied by colleagues, had an interview with the Chairman and several directors of the Corporation in London, and laid before them certain suggested modifications of the agreement. These are under consideration, and after reference to Lord Leverhulme a definite decision will be given. It is proposed to hold an independent meeting of shareholders at Liverpool prior to the meeting of the Corporation called to carry out the suggested deal.

COUNTY WICKLOW DOCTORS AND IRISH HEALTH COUNCIL.

At a meeting of the County Wicklow Branch of the Irish Medical Association the following resolution was passed with reference to the report of the Irish Public Health Council:—"That we, the members of the County Wicklow Branch of the I.M.A. and L.M.C., having considered in detail the proposed provisions in the report of the Irish Public Health Council, are of the opinion that the approval of the Dublin delegates' meeting of this report will not meet with the sanction of the medical practitioners throughout Ireland." It is important that any local medical committee who see a danger that the practitioners of Ireland may find themselves forced into a service worse in every way than the wretched conditions under which we now labour should meet and discuss the matter at once. It is a dangerous experiment for medical men to place themselves under the autocratic control of the proposed new Ministry of Health. Their experience of the L.G.B.'s actions in the past to thwart their efforts for improved conditions of service should be sufficient warning. The Insurance Commissioners' action in dividing the profession on the certification question, and whose schemes, but for the outbreak of war, would have been successful, hardly commends this body to the profession.

The Welsh poison trial opens to-day before Mr. Justice Shearman, at Carmarthen Assizes. Harold Greenwood, solicitor, of Kidwelly, and Llanelly, is being charged with poisoning his first wife, Mabel, on June 16th, 1919, by administering arsenic. The dead woman was a sister of Sir T. Vansittart Bowater, former Lord Mayor of London. Greenwood, who had four children, married his present wife fifteen weeks after the death of the first.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

RISES IN GOLD AND SILVER.

Bank Rate (changed April 15th)............ 7 p.c.

The London disbursements did not find their way to the market to any extent, and for the greater part of the day floating supplies were quite usable. Early borrowers over the night were able to obtain what they wanted without paying more than 5 p.c., though occasionally a slightly higher rate was asked. Towards the close it was fairly easy to get fresh money at 4½ p.c., but there was only a very little surplus supply below that figure. There was not much done in the discount market, but rates were firm. The full two months' bill is now a January maturity, and brokers mostly quoted 6⅝ p.c. as the minimum. Late December could be bought at 5⅞ p.c., but they were not wanted to any extent.

As usual on November 1, the Stock Exchange remained closed, and there were no changes in prices of public securities to record.

The price of gold was up 1s. 1d. to 119s. 2d. per oz. fine. A moderate amount was in the market, and the bulk of it was taken for India and America. Bar silver further advanced ½d. to 52⅛d. per oz. for spot and ⅛d. to 52⅜d. per oz. for forward delivery. The rise was chiefly due to sellers holding off.

With regard to foreign exchanges, the Catholic countries' exchanges were closed yesterday in observence of All Saints' Day, and consequently business in London was not very heavy. New York was less favourable to us, and on balance nearly 2 cents lower. Paris and Brussels cheques showed depreciation for francs, although not to a material extent.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. S. F. Prest has resigned his position as Chairman of Eley Brothers, Limited, ammunition manufacturers, but will retain his seat on the board.

It is announced that Mr. Albert Peech, of Firbeck Hall, Rotherham, has been appointed Chairman of the United Steel Companies, Ltd., in place of the late Mr. Henry Steel, and that Mr. Herbert Guedalla, of 1 Broad Street place, London, E.C. 2, has accepted the vacant seat on the board of that company.

It is stated by the secretary of Spillers Milling Associated Industries that, as a result of negotiations just completed, Sir John M. Frost, Mr. T. Gibbons Frost, and the other partners in Messrs. J. A. Frost and Sons, flour millers, of Chester and Ellesmere Port, have entered into an agreement whereby that firm has been converted into a private limited company, and the whole of the share capital will be exchanged for a mutually agreed number of shares of the three classes (Preference, Ordinary, and Deferred Ordinary) in Spillers Milling and Associated Industries, Ltd. In accordance with the agreement, Sir John Meadows Frost has joined the board.

Selfridge and Co.'s issue of £1,000,000 10 per cent. Cum. Pref. Ord. Shares of £1 each at par—Owing to the large number of applications already received, the list will be closed at 12 o'clock noon to-day (Tuesday), the 2nd inst.

The monthly bulletin of the National City of New York points out that the general trade and industrial developments of the month of October have strengthened the general conviction that the boom period in prices is over, and the country is settling down to conditions more normal than those which prevailed in the last half of 1919 and the early months of 1920. The day of competition among dealers for goods at any price and among employers for labourers at any wage has passed. There is good buying power in the country yet, but the keen edge is off. The feeling is that from now on there will be enough of everything to go round, and that most things will be cheaper rather than dearer. War conditions do not last always. The bulletin continues—"Imports in the first seven months of this year were 3,581,000,000 dollars, against 1,955,000,000 dollars in the same months of last year. The crops are large, and the cost of living is lower than last year. The argument for wage increases based on the cost of living works both ways, and the argument of diminished demand for goods and diminished employment is one of the most convincing in the world. It cannot be answered or put aside. It looks everybody in the face until something is done about it."

Cable advices from New York announce that Messrs. Speyer and Co. have purchased 6,000,000 dollars City of Berne 25-Year 8 per cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds. It is expected that the bonds will shortly be offered in America for public subscription. The City of Berne will pay Speyer and Co., the fiscal agents of the loan, an annual sinking fund and sums sufficient to redeem each year for the first five years 150,000 dollars of bonds, for the next ten years 250,000 dollars of bonds, and for the remaining ten years 300,000 dollars of bonds. For the first five years those bonds are to be purchased in the market up to 107 and interest, and to the extent that bonds cannot be so purchased, such balance of bonds is to be drawn by lot at 107 and interest two months prior to November 1, 1925, for payment on that date; thereafter bonds are to be drawn by lot annually at 107 and interest. The bonds are redeemable after five years at the option of the City of Berne in whole or in part at 107 and interest.

The United States Rubber Co. has reduced prices 12½ per cent. on so-called Ford sizes, and 10 per cent. on larger sizes of fabric tyres, with a slightly smaller cut on cord tyres. Solid tubes are reduced by 15 per cent., and solid truck tyres 10 per cent.

Some interesting statements concerning a contemplated English paper combination have been made to a representative of the Christiania "Norges Handels og Sjofartstidende" by Mr. W. Harrison, manager of the Hartlepools Paper Mills Company, who, in company with Sir Robert Carlyle (Chairman) and Messrs. C. Baker and H. Smith (directors), are making a tour of Scandinavia in order to study the conditions there in relation to raw materials for paper making. Mr. Harrison stated that his directors had already got in communication with various Norwegian makers of wood pulp, and it was intended to purchase a mill there. The manager is reported to have further stated that a great combination of English paper works is under consideration, with a probable share capital of from £4,000,000 to £5,000,000. The idea of the scheme was to place England in a position to control the great paper market. It was, therefore, necessary to establish co-operation with the Norwegian mills, and mills must also be purchased. It was intended to increase the import of cellulose from Norway, but this was difficult when a price of £60 per ton had to be paid.

A development of the agitation against the proposed deal by which Lord Leverhulme acquires control of the African and Eastern Trade Corporation took place yesterday, when Mr. L. Roy Heywood, representing the committee of dissenting shareholders, accompanied by colleagues, had an interview with the Chairman and several directors of the Corporation in London, and laid before them certain suggested modifications of the agreement. These are under consideration, and after reference to Lord Leverhulme a definite decision will be given. It is proposed to hold an independent meeting of shareholders at Liverpool prior to the meeting of the Corporation called to carry out the suggested deal.

COUNTY WICKLOW DOCTORS AND IRISH HEALTH COUNCIL.

At a meeting of the County Wicklow Branch of the Irish Medical Association the following resolution was passed with reference to the report of the Irish Public Health Council:—"That we, the members of the County Wicklow Branch of the I.M.A. and L.M.C., having considered in detail the proposed provisions in the report of the Irish Public Health Council, are of the opinion that the approval of the Dublin delegates' meeting of this report will not meet with the sanction of the medical practitioners throughout Ireland." It is important that any local medical committee who see a danger that the practitioners of Ireland may find themselves forced into a service worse in every way than the wretched conditions under which we now labour should meet and discuss the matter at once. It is a dangerous experiment for medical men to place themselves under the autocratic control of the proposed new Ministry of Health. Their experience of the L.G.B.'s actions in the past to thwart their efforts for improved conditions of service should be sufficient warning. The Insurance Commissioners' action in dividing the profession on the certification question, and whose schemes, but for the outbreak of war, would have been successful, hardly commends this body to the profession.

HANCOCK AND CO., NEW ZEALAND.—Dividend of 10 per cent. per annum on Ord. for half-year, making 10 per cent. for the year.

CALCUTTA ELECTRIC SUPPLY.—Interim dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, less tax, on Ord. for half-year.

LASCELLES, TICKNER AND CO.—Interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum on Preference Shares and 10 per cent. on Ordinary Shares.

MONTE VIDEO TELEPHONE.—A final dividend for the year ending 31st July last of 5 per cent., free of tax, making, with the interim dividend already paid, 8 per cent. for the year, free of tax.

ALFRED BIRD AND SONS.—Dividend of 10 per cent. and bonus of 6¼ per cent., together 16s. 6d. per share, tax free, on Ord., making 21¼ per cent. for the year.

HAMMOND'S BRADFORD BREWERY.—Dividend of 5 per cent. and bonus of 5 per cent., together 1s. 7 1-5d. per share, on Ord., making 15 per cent. for the year.

CHINA MUTUAL STEAM NAVIGATION.—Interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum on Ord., and 4s. 6d. per share on the B Ord., less tax, has been paid for the half-year.

HORDEN COLLIERIES.—Dividend of 10 per cent., tax free, making 14 per cent. for the year. The directors recommend the capitalisation of certain reserves of the company, and the distribution of the additional capital to the shareholders in shares.

LIVERPOOL AND NORTH WALES STEAMSHIP.—Profit for year ended October 8th was £12,385, and £4,472 was brought forward. The directors recommended a dividend of 10 per cent., less tax, carrying forward £6,353. Before arriving at the profit £4,500 has been allowed for depreciation of steamers.

CHARRON, LTD.—£10,000 to income tax reserve, and £2,000 for the reduction of the suspense account, leaving £55,071 to be dealt with. While this credit balance would allow of the directors recommending a dividend on the Ord., they prefer, in view of the present position of the French exchange, to leave the decision to the shareholders at the forthcoming annual meeting.

LONELY REEF GOLD MINING.—With reference to the interim dividend of 5/- per share, payable on 26th November next, income tax will be deducted therefrom at the rate of 3/6 in the £, instead of 6/-, as advertised, the company having been authorised by the Inland Revenue to make this allowance to shareholders in view of the recent imposition of Rhodesian income tax of 2/6 in the £. A similar allowance of 2/6 in the £ will be refunded at the same time to shareholders who received the first interim dividend on 31st July last.

CLERICAL INCOMES IN KILMORE DIOCESE.

Three conferences, presided over by the Bishop of Kilmore, were held last week at Cavan, Bailieborough, and Manorhamilton, in the Diocese of Kilmore, for the purpose of considering a scheme for the raising of the clergy's stipends in the diocese, and also for assisting the Central Emergency Fund. These conferences were attended by five specially selected representatives appointed by each parish in the diocese, and Church people generally were invited to attend. The conferences were very well attended, and most enthusiastic.

A scheme was submitted by Lord Farnham, and adopted, and the following resolution passed unanimously by all three conferences:—"That this conference, recognising the necessity of largely increased contributions to our Church funds, urges all Select Vestries to adopt the weekly envelope system of collections, and that the amount so raised in excess of the parochial assessment be disposed of in the way suggested in the scheme submitted to the conference."

THE LATE REV. E. H. WEIR.

At a meeting of Kilmore Clerical Association, held on the 28th October, at the Protestant Hall, Cavan—the Rev. E. D. Crowe in the chair—the following resolution was passed unanimously:—"We, the members of Kilmore Clerical Association, desire to place on record our sense of the great loss this diocese has sustained by the unexpected death of the Rev. E. H. Weir, M.A., and we wish to convey to Mrs. Mayer and to his brother and the other members of his family our sincere sympathy in their great sorrow."

TRAINING WEEK FOR WORKERS.

The training week for workers was brought to a close last Friday, when lectures were given by the Rev. Denton Green, M.A., on "How to Construct an Address," and by Miss White, LL.D., on "How to Deliver an Address." The Lady Talbot de Malahide took the chair, in the unavoidable absence of Lady HolmPatrick. Miss Buchanan, P.L.G., opened the discussion. Mrs. Frank Godfrey spoke on "How to Promote Good Reading," Miss Horsa Kennedy on "The Girl and Her Amusements," and Miss Muriel Poë on Girl Guiding. A discussion on Girls' Clubs was opened by Mrs. G. Shannon, who spoke of the Girls' Friendly Society Club at 50 Dawson street, and made a strong appeal for workers, both in the mornings to help in serving lunches and also in afternoons and evenings. The busiest time was from 12.30 to 2.30 p.m., and volunteers for even one or two days a week at the time would be very welcome. Young people were needed for the work and also to help in making pleasant social evenings and working with the younger members and candidates, and in other ways. The Rev. Chancellor McNeile gave the closing address on "The Spirit of Our Work," showing that if work is to be of real value it must be done from love, and that love is self-giving. The week was very well attended, and the subjects were dealt with from a high point of view.

ESPERANTO.

The Congress of the Universal Union of Esperanto International Associations, which was held in Brussels from the 5th to the 20th of September last, was attended by representatives from 112 universities and scientific associations from all parts of the world. Among the papers read were two in Esperanto—one by Dr. Corret, of Paris, on Radiotelegraphy; the other on the application of radium in the treatment of cancer, by Professor Wanverts, of Lille University. During the Congress a discussion took place on the necessity of an international auxiliary language, and (with the exception of one vote for the French language), the following resolution was unanimously passed:—"Seeing the greater and greater necessity for the adoption of an international auxiliary language, the Universal Congress of International Associations expresses the desire that all who recognise that necessity should join in the important movement for the spread of Esperanto in order to ensure great progress, and should postpone any improvement, though necessary (in Esperanto), until the time arrives when the international language will be officially accepted by the Governments."

MARKET REPORTS.

CATTLE.—LONDON, Monday.—Supplies of fat cattle were nearly 200 short of last week, but the quality generally was slightly better. Very few buyers were present, and trade was slow and dragging, with prices 2d. to 4d. per 8lbs. lower. Only a few Devons and no Irish cattle were shown. Average dead weight quotations, per 8lbs.:—Shorthorns—1st quality 12/4, 2nd 12/-; Herefords—1st quality 12/6, 2nd 12/2; Devons—1st quality 12/8, 2nd 12/4; fat cows—1st quality 10/8. About 400 fewer sheep and lambs penned than last week, and quality very poor. Trade again very slow, but eventually all were sold at about late rates. Average quotations, per lb.:—Devons—1st quality 27d., 2nd 24d., 3rd 22d.; longwools—1st quality 25d., 2nd 22d.; crossbreds—1st quality 28d., 2nd 25d.; lambs—1st quality 30d., 2nd 28d. Numbers in the market:—Cattle, 750; sheep and lambs, 1,112.

HULL, Monday.—Small show. Fair trade. Best beef 21/- to 22/-, sheep 31/6, old 24/6, pigs 20/- to 28/-. Numbers:—528 fat cattle, 142 store ditto, 318 fat sheep, 553 store sheep, 250 pigs.

Lever's Palm Nut Cake and Meal, Pig Meal.—Agent, W. Rourke, 36 North Circular road, Dublin.—(Advt.)

BIRKENHEAD, Monday.—There is a reduced supply of both cattle and sheep and lambs at the Birkenhead lairages to-day. A better demand was experienced for cattle at an advance on Friday's prices. Sheep and lambs met a quiet trade. Best bullocks and heifers realised up to 1/6½, sheep 2/-, and lambs 2/3 to 2/5 per lb. On sale, 300 cattle and 900 sheep and lambs. In the dressed beef section a fair trade was experienced, sides making 1/3½ to 1/4 per lb.

GLASGOW, Monday.—Hegarty and Kelly report good supplies of fat cattle at their sale in Glasgow Market to-day. Irish bullocks were a prime show, and met a firm demand at late rates. Bulls and cows of quality made a shade more money, but secondary sorts were no dearer. Sheep and lambs a small show, and made high prices.—(Advt.)

GRAIN.—FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC, Monday.—WHEAT—Allocations included white Pacific afloat to London at 118/6, red ditto 117/- per 480lbs. MAIZE dull and nominal for cargoes; Plate in all positions sellers 62/-, Dan-Gal-Fox-Bess., shipping or shipped, 61/6 per 480lbs. MAIZE dull and easier; Plate 66/- to landed 63/-.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—C.i.f. parcels of WHEAT were quiet, and business confined to No. 2 mixed winter afloat at 113/6 per qr. MAIZE—Parcels River Plate, after giving way 6d. per qr., improved on a natural reaction, closing 3d. to 6d. per qr. over Saturday; October-November sold at 56/- to 56/6, and November-December 56/3 to 57/- per qr. Wheat on the spot was quietly steady and unaltered. Maize—Spot parcels American mixed unchanged at 16/6, but River Plate easier at 12/10 to 13/1 for new and 12/8 to 12/11 per cental for old crop. FLOUR met a moderate demand at the official prices. Stocks of imported flour held by the Wheat Commission on October 29th at Liverpool were 9,283, Manchester 369, and Hull and Grimsby 4,994 tons. Yellow River Plate maize futures, after opening 1d. per cental lower, improved under a natural reaction and scarcity of sellers, the market closing firm at 1d. per cental over Saturday. Sales—25 loads at 12/5, 12/6¼, 12/7 for December, and 12/6¼ for January delivery. Official closing values—November 12/8, December 12/7, and January 12/7¼ per cental.

PROVISIONS.—DUBLIN VEGETABLE, Monday.—Offerings of seasonable vegetables this morning were small, and the following would represent the principal items of sales:—York cabbage, 15/- to 20/-, and for extras, 67/6 per load; Swede turnips, 4/- per cwt.; celery, 1/6 to 4/- per dozen; white turnips, 4d. to 6d. per bundle; parsley, 1/- per float; beetroot, 3d., and tomatoes, 1/- to 1/9 per lb.

LONDON, Monday.—BUTTER—Market without new feature, supplies being light. Liberal supplies are held in Canada, but prices asked are too high. Irish scarce and nominal. Finest Danish, control prices; Australian ditto; Irish separators 480/-, factories 420/-; Canadian and New Zealand, control prices. CHEESE—Demand quiet and supplies in excess of requirements; Canadian and New Zealand, control prices; Cheddar 180/- to 187/-, ditto flat 190/- to 200/-; Irish, finest 140/- to 145/-, coloured 148/-, secondary 112/- to 130/-. BACON quiet, despite freer offers of American; Danish in good request, and fair supplies available. Irish in fair demand at the recent decline, and prices tend easier. Irish ex factory 245/- to 250/-, Danish 208/- delivered, Canadian 203/-, American Cumberland cut 183/6 to 190/-, bellies English cut 208/-, American Wiltshire 183/6 to 192/-, ditto Canadian cured 203/-. Irish 48/- to 50/-, Rumanian 35/- to 36/-, Danish 18lbs. 51/- to 52/-, 16lbs. 48/6 to 49/-, Chinese 32/6, South African 44/- to 46/-.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—BACON—Some further small allocations have been made, consisting chiefly of American Wiltshires, but the market is over-supplied with this selection, the demand for which is still slow. Cumberlands, bellies, and backs, however, are fairly inquired for, and the supplies insufficient to fill orders in hand. Canadian Wiltshires scarce, and meet a ready offtake along with a proportion of American. Danish very scarce, but Irish offered to a fair extent at the recently reduced prices of 250/- to 255/- per cwt. ex factory, Irish, and 5/- less for very heavy weights. HAMS not too plentiful, and meet a ready sale when obtained alone, but buyers are less disposed to take bacon in conjunction. Shoulders remain in limited supply, with a continued inquiry for fresh squares and New Yorks. LARD on inquiry for spot at fair request, and some allotments of better-conditioned brands have been made, while prime steam is again scarce and wanted. CHEESE moves fairly for controlled at 1/5½ per lb., delivered to retailers, with a further 50 p.c. distribution expected to-morrow. Canadian quiet at 1/7 to 1/8; per lb., and free Canadian at 156/- to 160/- for white and 162/- to 166/- per cwt. coloured; slow of sale. BUTTER firm and readily taken up when available. EGGS more or less nominal for Irish owing to indifferent condition, and Canadian quoted 39/- to 40/- per 120.

DUBLIN FISH, Monday.—This market was practically without supplies, the only quotable item being 2 chests lobsters, which sold around Saturday's prices.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, Monday.—Supply fair; slow demand. Soles, 16d. to 21d.; slips, 13d. to 18d.; lobsters 24d. to 30d.; live eels, 27d.; dead, 24d. per lb.; turbot and brill, 8/-; plaice, 9/- to 10/-; halibut, 15/- to 18/-; lemon soles, 11/- to 13/-; whitches, 8/- to 9/-; cod, 6/- to 7/-; whiting, 2/- to 3/6; hake, 11/- to 12/-; gurnet, 5/-; bream, 4/-; haddocks, 4/6 to 6/- per stone.

LONDON CENTRAL MEAT, Monday.—Trade steady. Beef—Scotch short sides, 12/4 to 13/-; English and Irish (including Birkenhead), 10/- to 10/8; long-sides, 9/- to 10/8; forequarters, 5/4. Mutton—Scotch wethers, 13/4 to 15/-; English, 13/4 to 15/4; ewes, both, 9/4 to 10/8; imported frozen, 4/- to 6/-. Lamb—English, 15/4 to 16/-; Scotch, 15/4 to 16/8.

PRODUCE.—LONDON, Monday.—SUGAR ruled quiet for free parcels at the revised prices, and some American granulated sold 96/- on voucher. Tate's cubes 100/-, caster and pulverised 102/-, crushed granulated and white pieces 96/. Lyle's granulated No. 2 96/-, yellow crystals 96/- cwt. American syrup dull. COFFEE—Market generally dull, though fair support is accorded the cheaper descriptions. Futures dull. December quoted 57/6, March 58/- cwt. TEA—Indian sales of 10,000 pkgs. elicited better support in most cases, and fine teas tended dearer. Pekoe sold 52d. to 1/3¼, broken ditto 7½d. to 2/1, orange 7½d. to 2/6, broken orange 9d. to 2/7½ per lb. in bond. RICE—Only retail sales are proceeding at late rates. Bran sells slowly. OILS—Linseed easier; forward spot quoted 71/-, November-December 66/6, January-April sold 65/3. Rape, cotton, soya, and also coconut ruled unaltered. Turpentine firmer; American spot 131/-, November-December 132/-, January-April sold 137/6 to 135/- per cwt. Petroleum and also rosin quiet, unaltered. OILSEEDS—Linseed quiet and easier. Calcutta November-December sellers £35 10/-, Bombay ditto £36 5/-, Plate afloat £31 15/-, November-December £31 5/-, January-February £31. Rapeseed steady; Toria November-December to Hull quoted £34 10/-, real bold Ferozepore £33 10/. Cottonseed quiet; Egyptian f.a.q. November-December quoted £19, Bombay ditto £15, all per ton. Gingelly and castor unchanged. LINSEED CAKES—In spite of only a small retail trade prices are fairly well maintained as regards home manufactures, but foreign descriptions are obtainable on slightly easier terms; fine quality Argentine being to-day quoted at £22 per ton, and prime Western Americans at £21 per ton. Cotton Cakes—Egyptians do not offer on spot, and English makes continue to be sparingly on the market at £13 to £13 5/- per ton, and Bombays at £11 10/- per ton. Decorticated Cotton Cakes—A parcel of Bombays just arrived may be bought at £20 per ton, while some American cotton cake meal containing 36 p.c. albuminoids and 6 p.c. oil is cheaply offered at £18 per ton ex store. Coconut Cakes—London makes are fully as dear, but a limited quantity of fine quality Manila screw-pressed may be bought at £15 per ton ex warehouse. Maize Foods—Garton's maize gluten feed and Watney's maize feed remain in good demand at last week's prices. Watney's fine maize flour and semolina find a free sale at £18 15/- per ton. Sugar Foods—Hughes' patent molascuit and molassine meal continue in good request at late rates. Best cane cattle feeding treacle meets a steady inquiry at £13 10/- per ton in 6 cwt. casks.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR, Monday.—Official Report.—Market opened with a good demand. The Royal Commission intimate the reduction by retailers of twopence per lb., to take effect on the 15th inst.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Closing), Monday.—American good enquiry. Brazilian quotations reduced six points. East Indian unchanged. Egyptian, extensive business. November 15.87d., December 15.80d., January 15.52d., February 15.34d., March 15.16d., April 15.05d. Sales 7,000, imports 20,542 bales. Market steady.

WOOL.—BRADFORD, Monday.—Market very slack. Business confined to supplying urgent needs, the absence of transit facilities continuing to retard operations. Top quotations irregular, and barely firm, some interest being shown on German account. Other markets very quiet.

GRASS LANDS.—For permanently improving Grass Lands there is nothing to beat the old-fashioned fertiliser—Bones. The most readily available form of this article is Pure Steamed Bone Flour, containing 60 per cent. Bone Phosphate. It may be applied at any time of the year. For quotations apply to WILLIAM HOOPER and CO., LTD., 11 Burgh quay, Dublin.—(Advt.)

LONDON METALS MARKET.

Market for TIN, after opening firmer, chiefly forward, eased on realisations, cash being 15/- and forward 50/- lower on balance, with Friday's closing figures. Cash quoted £266 10/- to £267, 3 months £267 to £267 10/-, settlement price £266 10/-. Sales 200 tons, including cash at £267 10/- to £267, late November £268 to £267, late December £268, 3 months £271. COPPER received fair support, but sellers were very reserved, and against Friday's closing rates, Cash ruled about 40/-, and forward 25/- per ton dearer. Cash quoted £101 to £91 5/-, 3 months £89 15/- to £90, settlement price £91. Sales 800 tons, cash at £91 5/- to £91, late January £89 15/- to £90, 3 months at £89 to £89 10/-, electro £96 to £98. LEAD steady. Sales 700 tons, November £36 to £35 17/6, February £35 10/-. SPELTER weaker. Sales 600 tons, November at £38, December £38 10/-, January £39 per ton.

LONDON FREIGHTS—Monday.

Homeward markets opened the week with quiet demand for tonnage and rates somewhat harder, while in some directions an easy tendency was discernible. The River Plate section ruled dull, and rates weak, while largely nominal in the absence of orders, though owners are not pressing. For maize up river loading to U.K. or Continent 85/- is indicated, with about 10/- less lower ports. Nitrate from west coast of South America quieter to 100/- to U.K. or Continent for loading early next year, but tonnage offers light. North American markets quiet, and rates continue on easy side. Coals from northern states to River Plate quoted 13 dollars, Antwerp-Rotterdam 10½ dollars, French Atlantic 11 dollars, West Italy 12.80 dollars. Grain northern range to Antwerp-Rotterdam quoted 13/6 per quarter, North Spain 14/-, and Mediterranean 16/-, with an additional 1/- per quarter in each case if loading in the Gulf. Timber quiet, and pitch pine Gulf to U.K. or Continent quoted about 340/- per standard. Eastern markets quiet on dead weight quoted 82/6, with wheat from Karachi named at 77/6 to U.K. or Continent. Time charter shows no new feature, handy size vessels being worth about 15/- per ton per month, for a period of six months' trading. Other markets dull.

DUBLIN CORPORATION ACCOUNTS.

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD AUDIT.

ATTITUDE OF THE COUNCIL.

A monthly meeting of the Dublin Corporation was held yesterday, Alderman L. O'Neill, Lord Mayor, presiding.

Alderman W. Cosgrave said that before moving the adjournment of the Council there was one item which was very pressing that he would like to be disposed of. That was the notice from Mr. Cyril Browne, Local Government auditor, of his intention to attend at the Municipal Buildings on Tuesday, the 2nd November, 1920, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of auditing the accounts of the Dublin County Borough Council, and requiring the production at the time and place above-mentioned of all books and accounts relating to the Council duly made up and balanced to the close of the last financial period. He moved the resolution standing in the name of Councillor G. A. Lyons: "That it be an instruction to the responsible officers of the Council not to furnish the books or accounts of the Dublin Corporation to the British Local Government auditor," with the following addendum:—"And that the question of the services in respect of which contributions are due be referred for consideration to a Committee of the whole House."

Councillor Lyons seconded the motion.

A letter was read from the Local Government Department of Dail Eireann informing the Corporation that no accounts were to be submitted to any official of the Local Government Department of the English Government, and that no facilities be given to any such official. The letter added that in due course the accounts of the Corporation, in common with other public bodies throughout the country, would be audited by the Local Government Board Department of Dail Eireann.

Alderman McWalter moved as an amendment the motion standing in his name:—"That this Corporation is prepared to submit all its books and accounts to audit, as hitherto."

Alderman Hubbard Clark seconded the amendment.

Dr. McWalter said that he hoped that the Council fully realised the gravity of the matter. He suggested that the payment of every officer and every workman would be held up if the resolution was passed. Dail Eireann would be morally bound at least for the payment of workmen and officials. He was not quite sure that they had the enormous amount of money to pay out the million a year that the Corporation ordinarily spent. Alderman Cosgrave had been lucky with the bank so far, but he suggested that the situation was absolutely changed within the last few days, and there were certain reasons why they could not get £10,000 from any bank in Dublin.

Alderman Clark, in seconding the amendment, said that one feature in connection with the proposal which induced him to take up a hostile position towards the resolution was that recently one of the most important Committees of the Corporation—the Technical Schools Committee—agreed to comply with all the rules and regulations of the Local Government Board. If the resolution was passed, he would like to get some direction as to what position the Technical Schools Committee would be in. Whatever they did, let their action be in order.

THE CORPORATION'S FINANCES.

Sir A. Beattie said that in the matter of their audits the Corporation should be guided by the same action as had guided them for so many years past. It was wrong to take up in that way so serious a matter affecting the finances of the Corporation and the payment of their workmen. From what he knew of the city, and especially in connection with the technical schools, it would mean that the municipal business of the city would, if the resolution were passed, be thrown into chaos. The sure and certain effect of passing the resolution would be to shut up every department of the Corporation. At present the business, especially the financial affairs of the Corporation, was in a very bad way, and they could not hope to go on and pay their way unless they got some advances from the bank. They could not expect that, if the Corporation adopted the resolution, any bank would honour their cheque or make them any advances. If they passed the resolution, it would mean that they would have to make an entire and fundamental change in all the rules and regulations of the Corporation's business. If Mr. O'Higgins had gone into details and given some reasons why they should make the change, they might possibly have some weight with him, but, as a man of business experience, he (Sir A. Beattie) refused to make the change proposed without being satisfied that the business of the city would not suffer in consequence. He suggested that both resolution and amendment be withdrawn, and that the Corporation should go into Committee of the whole House and consider what the change in the Corporation's procedure would mean.

The Lord Mayor said that, as the Law Agent's opinion had been much appreciated by the Council on a recent occasion, he thought it would be well to have it on the present occasion.

AN ILLEGAL PROPOSAL.

The Law Agent, having been informed of the request contained in the letter of Mr. Cyril Browne, auditor of the Local Government Board, and the terms of the resolution and amendment, said that the proposal to withhold the books of the Corporation was illegal, inasmuch as Acts of Parliament required that the necessary books be submitted to the auditor.

The Lord Mayor said that in face of that opinion he declared that the resolution was out of order. (To Alderman Cosgrave)—Do I understand that you accept the Law Agent's opinion?

Alderman Cosgrave—Our contention is that English law in this country has ceased to operate.

A Member—Except on the scaffold.

Dr. McWalter—They had not the spunk to rise this morning to prevent an execution. Why do they not fight if they want to?

Alderman Cosgrave—I do not mind the doctor's words. The country knows how to value men like him. It knows who the fighters are. We take the stand that we do in this questioning of the Corporation's accounts on the authority that has been given us by the country and by the people of Dublin, and we take our stand in continuity with the stand that we took up two years ago, when the will of the people was expressed. The people of Ireland then and now attach little weight to what men like Dr. McWalter said. Their position was that, in face of the opinion which the Irish people had expressed, no official connected with an English Board had any authority to examine the accounts of that Council. If they reviewed the events of the last six or eight months, they would see the courage which had been shown all over Ireland in acting up to that contention. If Dr. McWalter were the man of courage that he would like some people to believe him to be, he would come forward and acknowledge that he had made mistakes in the past and act as an Irishman. He (Alderman Cosgrave) never heard in his eleven years in public life such scaremongering as had been raised that day. The only sensible contribution to the debate was the suggestion of Alderman Clark, that the working of the Technical Schools Committee might be upset. But in the matter of auditing the accounts the Corporation was the higher authority, and it was the duty of the other Committees to render obedience to its decisions. It was to the domination of the alien that the Corporation objected, and not to any individual auditor. Dr. McWalter did not suggest that if they resisted the auditing of their books they would be short of money to pay their workmen. A short time ago, owing to the embezzlement of the funds of the Council by the British Government, they were financially embarrassed, and the doctor went scaremongering at the time, but to-day he congratulated him (the speaker) on having found a way out. There was no necessity to convince the banks. They would get the money as they needed it. They would meet their liabilities and carry out every undertaking they gave. They were going to carry on the business of the city, and not allow any pilfering of their funds.

Dr. McWalter—And you will not allow any executions either.

Alderman Cosgrave—If you want to execute, that is your business. You are the High-Sheriff, but not with the good-will of this Council.

Dr. McWalter interjected a remark which was inaudible to the Press.

The Lord Mayor—I think that, in view of what happened this morning, this thing should stop. I appeal to the spirit and manhood of everyone to see that it does.

Alderman Cosgrave said that there were forty-four members of that Council in armed conflict with English law. They were elected to resist it, and they were being loyally supported by the majority of the people of Ireland. They made no reservations. They would acknowledge the right of no British official to audit the accounts of that Council. Everything that they did would be above-board and open.

The Lord Mayor said that the Law Agent had given his opinion that the motion was out of order, and consequently he would not allow the motion to go before the Council. That being so, the amendment was also out of order.

A FURTHER MOTION.

Mr. P. T. Daly then proposed that the letter of Mr. Cyril Browne, Local Government Board auditor, the letter from Dail Eireann, and the resolution be referred to a Committee of the whole House. From the fact that that morning a child had been launched into eternity by the English Government for an act of war, they must necessarily feel the responsibility that attached to their position in that Council, and unflinchingly refuse to allow the books and documents to be submitted to any official of the British Government.

Mr. Farren seconded.

Mr. Lyons said that it was up to them to declare whether the British Local Government Auditor was to be allowed to see the books or not.

FROM HAND TO MOUTH.

Mr. Stritch said that they were at present living from hand to mouth, borrowing from the banks, and piling up interest. They could not continue pledging and pawning, and he asked them, in the interest of the working classes and the ratepayers, to consider the matter on proper business lines.

Mr. McCarthy said that it was not a political matter, but a financial matter.

Alderman Cosgrave—Explain that; the others have not explained it.

Mr. McCarthy—It is a financial matter, because we have not got the money.

Alderman Cosgrave—It is worse they are getting.

Mr. White held that Mr. Browne should have the books submitted to him.

Alderman O'Brien asked, if the amendment was carried, would the books be submitted for audit.

The Lord Mayor—No. If the amendment is carried, it is the duty of the officials to carry out our decision.

Dr. McWalter—It is perfectly certain that our officials are not bound to carry out an illegal order.

In reply to further questions, the Lord Mayor said that he could give no assurance that the books would not be submitted to Mr. Browne if the amendment was carried.

Mr. Daly—If the motion is carried, can you give that assurance?

The Lord Mayor—No.

The Law Agent said that, even if the motion or amendment was carried, and if there was no instruction given clearly to the officials, it would be their duty to submit them. In any case, each official who refused to comply with the request of the Auditor would be guilty of an offence against the law.

Alderman Cosgrave said that because the people would not strike criminal and malicious injuries rates war was declared on the local authorities and their funds.

During the course of further statements by Alderman Cosgrave,

Mr. Stritch remarked that two-thirds of the people in the Council paid no rates.

Alderman Cosgrave said that if they did not do so directly their friends did so, and might have as big a stake in the country as Mr. Stritch.

The Lord Mayor intervened, and said that it was his duty to protect the reputation of his colleagues.

Dr. McWalter—You did not do it in time.

The Lord Mayor—It is better late than never.

Alderman Cosgrave said that they had got the money and the banks had accepted their guarantees in good faith.

Dr. McWalter—They accepted the guarantee of audit.

Alderman Cosgrave—I said that the books would be open to audit.

The Law Agent said that in the various transactions with the banks there was no word about the Local Government Board auditing the books in any of the agreements.

Alderman Cosgrave said that, if they borrowed the housing money from the Local Government Board, they would be paying an equivalent equal to 10 per cent., so that they made a business proposition when they took this money from the banks. It was all camouflage talking about losing money by refusing the books for audit.

Sir A. Beattie—If we submit our books for audit, will we get £170,000?

Alderman Cosgrave—I never saw that in writing.

The amendment was lost by 33 votes to 8 votes, and the motion was carried by 27 votes to 13 votes.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

"TANNHAUSER."

The Royal Carl Rosa Opera Co. began the concluding week of their visit to the Gaiety Theatre last night with the performance of "Tannhauser." This work is always interesting to the average opera enthusiast on account of the multitude of familiar melodies which it contains; indeed, there are few operas that have so consistently drawn big "houses" for many years in Dublin. But it has a great attraction for the man who is interested in the development of music drama, for it was the first opera that revealed to the world the real Wagner, with his ideas of the regeneration of art. In the performance last night one was especially struck by the singing and interpretation of Miss Ethel Austin, who took the part of Elizabeth. Her voice is round and flexible, and she has a big range. In the opening scene in the second act she brought out the quiet dignity and purity of Elizabeth's character, which is such a contrast to the exotic passion of Venus. Most singers who take this part err on the side of sentimentality, but Miss Austin's singing of the beautiful prayer at the shrines in Act III. was very appealing. Miss Annie Wallace sang the difficult music of Venus well, but lacked fire and passion in her great song in Act I. Mr. Louis Dornay, as Tannhauser, somewhat spoiled his performance in the first two acts by exaggeration and excessive tremolo. The music is so expressive that any meaningless gestures spoil the dramatic effect. His singing of the pilgrimage music, with its melodramatic recitative, was striking. Mr. Frank Clarke, as Wolfram, was heard to advantage, particularly in the third act. Mr. Harrison Cook, as the Landgrave, gave a capital study of the Wagner recitations. The orchestra, considering its size, skilfully interpreted the somewhat difficult music of this opera.

A special performance of "Mignon" will be given by request to-morrow at half-past two o'clock. "Mignon" is one of the most popular and interesting of the series of operas performed by the Carl Rosa company, and it is sure to receive liberal patronage at to-morrow's matinee.

THEATRE ROYAL.

A remarkable exhibition of the high degree to which a seal can be trained was given last evening at the Theatre Royal by one Marcelle, whose partner and assistant, in an exceedingly interesting performance, provided genuine amusement. This seal, or "sea lion," struts about the stage at the bidding of its master, and indulges in a variety of capers, which must be seen to be believed. It would almost seem that the animal is endowed with a species of intelligence little less than human, for it laughs and sings, in its own way, at the bidding of its master, and balances bottles, hats, and balls upon its snout. Cliff Friend, an American entertainer, presented several songs of his own composition, and scored a decided success. Hughie Ogilvie, a Scottish comedian, returns to Dublin after a long interval, and his repertoire of short stories, as given last evening, is very good. He had a flattering reception. Madge Brownie and her gentleman assistant were well received in their musical seance, which was fast and funny. Two comedians, Collins and Morane, appeared to advantage; and two lively Scots, McRae and La Port, gave an exhibition of their dexterity on the trapeze. Madeline Harrison's songs and dances were agreeable and graceful. Dorothy Halm, comedienne and dancer, and the Three Maxim Girls, juggling artistes, presented interesting turns.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.

The story of a white man's passion for a fair native girl on a tropical island, the social complications arising from their racial difference, and the ultimate vanishing of that difficulty when the girl's white parentage is discovered, is unfolded in "The Great Barrier," which was performed at the Queen's Theatre last night before crowded houses. The performances won unstinted praise. The principal characters were sustained by Ira Allen (Martin Vernon), Thomas Moran (Lt. Alan Boyne, R.N.), Louis O'Connor, Jason Burney, and Miss Lily O'Farrell (the Samoan Girl).

THE EMPIRE THEATRE.

Crowded houses at both performances in the Empire Theatre gave Fred Karno's new production, "Hustle," a hearty reception. It is of the usual revue order, and the theme bears on the good results derived from a four-course of "Pulmanism," a system of mind and memory training, all of which lead to amusing scenes and incidents, which are excellently portrayed. The humour of the piece is principally supplied by Mr. A. W. Baskcomb, who, as Vivian Sharp, the express man, displays much versatility. Miss Vica Hayne is a charming heroine, and others who contribute to make the production highly successful are Mr. Arthur Knight, Mr. Montague Golding (whose singing was much appreciated), and Mr. Alexander McKee. They are supported by a capable company. The remainder of the programme is of a variety character, and was equally entertaining. The Dancing Mites, two little girls described as the champion Irish step dancers, evoked hearty applause for their fine exhibition, and they had to respond to a warm encore. Billie and Betty, with their piano, are now no strangers to Dublin, and their ragtime contributions met again with approbation. Colbert is a skilful hoop manipulator, and his performance not alone with the hoops, but with the dumb-bells, was clever. Arthur Green is an Irish comedian, who found favour at once with his singing and dancing.

THE TIVOLI THEATRE.

The two "houses" at the Tivoli Theatre last evening thoroughly enjoyed the varied programme of entertainment provided for them. Joe Manzan and Syd Kerbel, in their jolly songs and patter, caught the fancy of their auditors, and were given a right hearty reception. Fred Brand, described as "the Ideal Coon," worked hard and successfully, his dancing being quite a feature of the whole performance. The Two Moros supplied an engaging scena in vocal and comedy medium, and were duly appreciated. Doris Gaskell delighted her hearers by her excellent singing, and the Sisters Allen roused the audience to enthusiasm by their ragtime duets. Janella, an Anglo-Italian vocalist, won keen appreciation for her efforts, while Adams and Lee amused the audience with their brilliant juggling and balancing. An athlete named Ladringlos disported himself freely, and secured the applause of the audience. In the interval the orchestra played a selection, "La Favorita," which was highly appreciated.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF SCIENCE SCHOLARSHIP EXAMINATION.

As a result of the recent examination held by the Royal College of Science Agricultural Faculty, 1920-21, the following candidates have been awarded Scholarships at the Royal College of Science:—J. Beatty, Glenmore, Kenagh, County Longford; A. E. Comerford, Mount St. Benedict's, Gorey, County Wexford; R. R. Glanville, "Ben Inagh," Blackrock, County Dublin; J. J. DUBLIN CITY SESSIONS.

COMPENSATION CLAIMED FOR THE DEATH OF A SON.

At the City Sessions yesterday, before the Right Hon. the Recorder, Joseph Courtney, coach-painter of 20 Charlemont street, claimed compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act for the loss of his son, John Joseph Courtney, aged 18, a coach-painter's apprentice, employed for the past three or four years by the A. and B. Taxis Co., Ltd., of Portobello Harbour, Dublin. Applicant's case was that his son contracted lead poisoning in the course of his employment, as a result of which he died on August 28th last. The son brought home his weekly wages—18/3—to his father, a widower.

Dr. Palmer gave evidence of the poisoning.

Respondents denied liability. They placed deceased's average weekly wage at 15/1.

Accepting the latter figure, his lordship awarded £60 and costs in full settlement of the claim.

Mr. Black (instructed by Mr. Eastwood) was for applicant, and Mr. J. J. McDonald for respondents.

ACCIDENT TO A HORSE TRAINER.

A claim for the loss of an eye under the Workmen's Compensation Act was heard yesterday before the Right Hon. the Recorder.

The applicant was James Doyle, who was employed schooling horses intended for hunters by John F. Donnelly, Bridge House, Blanchardstown.

Applicant's case was that, whilst engaged exercising a horse respondent's property on 23rd June at Castleknock the animal became restive and kicked him, injuring his right eye, which was removed subsequently in hospital. Applicant stated that, with wages, house, and perquisites, his earnings were £5 10/- a week.

Respondent admitted liability, but placed applicant's earnings somewhat lower than the figure mentioned.

Applicant, giving evidence, said that he was 37 years of age, and had a wife and five children. He had been able to earn additional money riding horses for other people at race meetings. He could not now ride in steeplechases with one eye.

The Recorder said that he would never believe that he could not ride a horse because he had only one eye.

Mr. McLoughlin—He might not be able to pull so well, my lord.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Mr. Fagan), for applicant, said the question of his client continuing in Mr. Donnelly's employment should be taken into consideration.

The case was allowed to stand till next Sessions, when the question of future employment will be considered and the claim for compensation decided.

QUEEN'S COUNTY. SHANAHOE, MOUNTRATH.

SALE OF RESIDENTIAL FARM.

WITH GENTLEMAN'S MODERN RESIDENCE, EXCELLENT OUT-OFFICES, CONSERVATORIES, AND WALLED GARDEN.
MESSRS. J. J. AIRD and SONS are instructed by T. Hubert Tilly, Esq., TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, ON THE LANDS OF SHANAHOE, MOUNTRATH,
ON WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1920,
AT THE HOUR OF ONE O'CLOCK (IF NOT PREVIOUSLY DISPOSED OF BY PRIVATE TREATY), Part of the Lands of SHANAHOE, containing 86 Acres Irish Plantation Measure, or thereabouts, with the Dwelling-house and Out-offices thereon, situate at Shanahoe, three miles from Abbeyleix, five miles from Mountrath, and three miles from Kilbricken Station, subject to the yearly judicial rent of £100 per annum, payable from the 1st day of November, 1920. The Poor valuation is £109.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.
The Lands for Sale form a compact and well-cultivated Farm, in good heart and condition. The Dwellinghouse is three-storeyed, and contains three sittingrooms and five bedrooms, with kitchen, pantry, and usual servants' apartments.
There is an enclosed Stable Yard, with stabling for four horses, lofted coach-house, wash-house, turf shed, and a pump, with a never-failing supply of spring water.
The Farm Buildings comprise slated cattle sheds for 25 head, stabling for three horses (lofted), two slated calf sheds, piggery, labourer's house, and five-span hay barn. The Farm is well supplied with good water. There are at present six acres and two roods manured land for corn crop, five acres in new grass, six acres and two roods second meadow, five acres of stubbles, and the remainder in grass. The house is approached by an avenue, with gate lodge, and there is a walled garden, well planted with fruit trees, and a conservatory attached to the house.
The purchaser will be entitled to the timber on the lands except oak and ash.

COUNTY OF CAVAN.
IMPORTANT AND ATTRACTIVE SALE OF A VERY DESIRABLE GENTLEMAN'S COUNTRY RESIDENCE AND MOST VALUABLE FARM OF LAND.
The undersigned has received instructions to accept Proposals up to Saturday, the 4th day of December, 1920, for the SALE BY PRIVATE TREATY of one of the FINEST FARMS OF LAND IN THE COUNTY OF CAVAN, containing about 100 ACRES, statute measure, or thereabouts, held from the Irish Land Commission at the small annuity of £45.
On the Farm stands a magnificent three-storeyed slated DWELLING-HOUSE, with splendid Out-offices and enclosed Yards, suitable for every accommodation needed for such a farm. The Land is of the best quality, divided into suitable-sized fields, which are well watered and fenced. There is an abundance of turbary and meadow.
The Farm House is approached by a very pretty drive, lies adjoining the road, and in the most thickly populated part of the county, surrounded by a number of fair and market towns at a short distance; near the railway, church, chapel, and schools.
For Conditions of Sale and further particulars apply to
G. V. MALONEY, LL.B., Solicitor, COOTEHILL and CAVAN.

TOWN OF CAVAN.
IMPORTANT SALE OF A WELL ESTABLISHED AND PROSPEROUS MOTOR AND CYCLE BUSINESS AS A GOING CONCERN.
The undersigned invites proposals up to Saturday, the 4th day of December next, for PURCHASE BY PRIVATE TREATY of that well-known and flourishing establishment known as
THE CENTRAL GARAGE, CAVAN.
The premises are modern, and consist of an extensive two-storeyed main structure, well built in stone, and thoroughly lighted, having on the ground floor—office, stock room, show room, and floor accommodation for six cars, work benches, and machinery. On the second floor, the area of which is equal to that of the ground floor, are the fitting and finishing departments.
The Garage, which is situate in the centre of Cavan, in the very business hub of the town, is well stocked with accessories for cars and cycles of every kind, and has a large petrol trade, general motor and cycle business, and a splendid name for efficiency and good service.
Attached thereto is a fine fleet of motor cars, motor vans, motor trucks, Overlands, Studebakers, and Fords. The entire premises are in first-class repair, and are held on lease with a long unexpired term to run at a low yearly rental. Adjoining this property, vendor can have almost unlimited facility for extra housing for cars.
Vendor will sell the above in one Lot as a Going Concern, or will sell in several Lots to suit purchasers, or will even rent the premises.
Part of the purchase money can, if needed, remain outstanding by arrangement. No more tempting offer has been made for years to members of the motor or cycle industry in this country, as it carries with it unrivalled opportunities for development.
The Vendor, who is one of the best known motor traders in Ulster, is selling as the rapid growth of his factory in the City of Belfast, is demanding all his time and attention.
Intending purchasers can inspect the premises by arrangement.
For further particulars and Conditions of Sale apply to
G. V. MALONEY, LL.B., Solicitor, CAVAN and COOTEHILL.
